Hostility of Crowd Apparent as Noble and His Men Transfer From Vessel to Train at Narvik.

SWEDES ON SHIP
LOUDLY CHEERED

Commander of Arctic Expedition Appears to Be Broken Physically and Mentally.

By the Associated Press.
NARVIK, Norway, July 27.—The North's farewell to the survivors of the Italia when they started for home was hissed. Today they were rushing southward in a special car to Italy, where they will face an inquiry into their fatal trip to the pole.

Cheers sped the airship on its way when it departed from Vadsø on May 5 for the Arctic and the town was decked with bunting and flags in their honor. Hostility kept them aboard their base ship, the Citta di Milano here yesterday until the train was ready to take them home.

Gen. Umberto Nobile, commander of the dirigible, looked like a man broken physically and mentally. He was pale, thin and stooped and his haggard face showed plainly the strain of worry and illness.

When the Citta di Milano arrived at the little place of Fagnæs, about two miles from Narvik, the crowd waiting on the quay ignored the appeals of the Italian crew to take the mooring rope cast ashore. A sailor was forced to jump to the quay to tie the ship and finally a boy of 11 pitted them and helped in the mooring.

Hostile Greet Zappi.
Capt. Filippo Zappi, navigator of the airship, appeared on deck, intending to disembark to buy some clothes. There were hostile cries from the crowd on the quay and he decided to remain aboard the ship.

There was a military air about the vessel. Marines with fixed bayonets stood guard over the gangplank.

Nobile did not appear for some time after the ship had been moored. He was working in the cabin and it was stated he had been spending much time compiling a report of the expedition. He now has recovered sufficiently to stand without a stick, but still is weak broken down.

During the afternoon the Italia appeared on the deck of the vessel. Natale Cecconi, motor chief, whose leg was broken in the crash of the airship, was bandaged, appeared to be the merriest. He jumped around on crutches with a great grin in his mouth.

Nobile seemed ill when he appeared, wearing civilian clothes with his gloves in one hand and smiling a bit when talking to his companions aboard but appeared to be nervous and absent-minded. His past sufferings were manifest in the effect on the onlookers.

When the survivors of the Radio Operator Giuseppe Biagi came down the gang plank first. He threw himself in the arms of his brother, who was awaiting him. Cecconi followed, refusing help. Nobile still seemed nervous when he said farewell to the officers of the Citta di Milano. He walked down the gangplank feebly and nearly stumbled.

Crowd Hisses as Men Land.
A large crowd had assembled on the quay by this time. There was some hissing, but no disorder and only two policemen were present. The members of the Swedish relief expedition, who are traveling to Stockholm by the same train, were loudly cheered as they boarded their car.

The passage of the Citta di Milano from Spitzbergen to Narvik was very slow. It was stated that this was because Capt. Alberto Mariani's leg became frostbitten while waiting on the ice for rescue and that he was amputated after he and Zappi had been rescued by the Russian ice breaker Krassin on July 12.

The Citta di Milano will return to the Spitzbergen region to aid in the searching operations for the six men who drifted away in the bag part.

A bomb exploded shortly before last midnight at the home in Webster Groves of Marshall B. Peterson, candidate of the reform element for the Republican nomination for Sheriff of St. Louis County. The attack, attributed by Peterson to underworld opposition, occurred in the absence of the family. It caused damage which Peterson estimated might reach $1000.

Peterson is foreman of the present Federal grand jury, which has been expected to act against the notorious liquor traffic and other evils in the county. He was foreman of last year's county grand jury and has been Mayor of Webster Groves. He thinks the bombing may be held to those opposing his nomination for Sheriff, but does not think any of the other candidates had a hand in the outrage.

The bomb was placed under the back porch of Peterson's two-story frame residence at 427 Frodo avenue. It was touched off at 11:45 p. m., blowing away the porch steps and some of the floor boards, and breaking a water pipe. The explosion was heard over a wide radius. Neighbors reported seeing a new Ford roadster, with lights out and engine running, parked on Lee avenue, a block away. The bomber is thought to have escaped in it, after dashing through an adjacent yard.

Returning home from a political meeting in Wellington at 12:30 o'clock this morning, Peterson found the water pipe leaking and the contents of a bath room medicine cabinet strewn on the floor. He is a widower, living alone, as his four daughters are students at St. Elizabeth's Academy, 3401 Arsenal street. Peterson is a director and salesman of the Acme Paper Co.

"Last Tuesday evening," said Peterson today, "I received a telephone call from a prominent citizen, a friend of mine, who said he had been trying to reach me for two hours and who urged me to visit his office at once. I went to his office and he told me he had received a tip from a man connected with the underworld, for whom he did a favor years ago, that the underworld planned to 'get' Peterson. My friend understood this to mean I might be shot and he advised me to be careful."

On Law Enforcement Platform.
Running on a law enforcement platform Peterson has announced his intention to fight bootlegging, moonshining, gambling and other criminal activities, and those engaged in these affairs have believed in his sincerity. Among Peterson's political backers are men and women identified with county reform movements or otherwise opposed to the underworld element.

Today is the last day for candidates to withdraw from the race, and Peterson is of the opinion that the bombing might have been a warning to him to retire. He does not intend to quit the campaign.

The chief executive had just arrived at the Superior baseball park to witness the opening game of the Head of the Lakes tournament between Ashland, Wis., and team of the Great Northern railroad, when a Western Union messenger boy arrived bearing a telegram addressed to the "Honorable Calvin Coolidge, ball park, Superior, Wis."

Everett Sanders, secretary to the President, took the message and opened it. With a grin he passed it on to Mr. Coolidge. The latter smiled and handed the yellow sheet to Mrs. Coolidge, who also laughed.

The telegram read: "Through you this messenger boy is able to get to the ball game without charge. I thank you."

CROWDED LINER COLLIDES

Casualties Reported.

By the Associated Press.
MONTREAL, Que., July 27.—An ocean liner filled with passengers and a collier collided head on in the St. Lawrence river today. Both craft were badly damaged, but no loss of life has been reported so far.

The collision occurred about 1:30 a. m. at Sorel, 35 miles down the river from Montreal. The incoming Canadian Pacific liner Montrose struck the outbound Rose Castle.

The collier Rose Castle had to be beached when its engine room was flooded. The liner continued to this point and docked with a twisted and buckled stern and the plates on her port bow torn. There were no casualties on the Montrose, but there were no definite reports this afternoon as to the welfare of the Rose Castle's crew. At the jar of the collision the Montrose's passengers rushed on deck from their berths, but there was no panic, ship's officers said.

By BERNARD RICKATSON-HATT

(British News Agency).

NEW YORK, July 27.—Only in New York, that monstrous tuberculosis of civilized life, could a spectacle like last night's fight be adequately presented. It could never be the same in London or Paris. Only in America's premier city would it be possible to stage a spectacle which combined the atmosphere, and many of the features, of a Spanish bullfight, an English soccer match and a gala performance in a Roman gladiatorial arena.

No fire-breathing Andalusian bull ever put up a gamier fight than the New Zealander and no matador could have wielded a sharper sword than Gene Tunney. Some 40,000 fans outthundered Herod in their excitement, like a crowd at a football championship in Glasgow. When the coup de grace was about to be administered, the referee intervened as the Emperor Nero might have done in the coliseum at Rome on behalf of a gladiator who, though in extremis, had nevertheless proved his manhood and his worthiness to live and fight another day.

Amazing Enthusiasm.

Apart from the colossal scale on which everything was planned, and conceived, the mammoth spurge of publicity and the "ballyhoo" (an excellent word, which the editors of the Oxford dictionary might gratefully and gracefully receive), one of the things which struck me most about the fight was the uncontrollable enthusiasm and feverish emotionalism of the crowd. At a big night at the National Sporting Club in London, one might hear a few restrained handclaps or a murmured "well hit, sir," but that is usually all there is to it. Per- haps Mr. Rickatson would do well to remember this, should he ever think of staging a heavyweight championship in England, as he told me the other day he hoped to do.

English papers do not devote a great deal of space to boxing, that the American papers do, and there is nothing like the same interest in boxing on the other side that there is in racing or football. A chosen few could doubtless be found to give $50 or even $60 for a seat, but their number would hardly be enough to pay the steamer fares over of Mr. Rickard and his staff.

Like Wembley Stadium.

The Yankee stadium reminds one somewhat (apart from the razor blade advertisements) of the great stadium at Wembley which was specially built for the British Empire exhibition in 1924. The people are packed in the stands in the same way and when the lights are lowered look in the distance like multi-colored confetti. They were a very sporting crowd last night. Some of them may have come hoping to see murder or at least manslaughter done, but they gave as hearty and certainly as noisy a reception as he would ever have got in New Zealand.

The relatively large number of women present seemed rather surprising. They came in all costumes from elaborate toilettes and evening wraps to "summer knockabouts." Some wore picture hats, others tam-o-shanters. Most of those in evening dress were escorted by men wearing dinner jackets and straw hats (a combination which would cause more stir at the National Sporting Club in London than a championship bout). Some of the ladies really seemed to be genuine fans. Two who happened to be sitting near me stood up on their seats and shouted and yelled epithets the pitilessness and cogeny of which left nothing to be desired.

Instinct vs. Intellect.
The bout itself, though lamentably one-sided, was a most exciting and spectacular affair. It was a fight between a buccolic, stout-hearted Roman gladiator and a Greek athlete, a blacksmith's brawn versus skill and grace. Instinct pitted against intellect, pluck against brains.

By the Associated Press.
CROYDON, July 27.—Big passenger airplanes are easier to fly than small machines, said Lady Heath, British flyer, when she arrived here today at the controls of a 15-passenger ship in which she had come from Amsterdam as second pilot. It was her first flight as pilot of the Royal Dutch Air Lines, and she is the first woman to be so employed.

"I find the big passenger liners easier to fly than small machines," she said. "As a result of my experience I am sure there is a big future in civil aviation for women pilots."

She explained that her trip was the first of a series to gain experience with multi-engine planes. Her regular job will be that of second pilot on a Fokker in air mail service between Amsterdam, Holland, and Batavia, Java.

Lady Heath, the former Mrs. Elliott Lynn, is the wife of Sir James Heath, Ironmaster and colliery proprietor. She arrived at Croydon on May 17 from Cape Town, South Africa, completing a 10,000-mile solo flight started in February. She was the first woman to fly the length of the African continent.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—Making his first reference to politics in a public address since his nomination, Herbert Hoover told the people of this city at his homecoming celebration today that an obligation rested upon him not only to represent the great party which has designated him for leadership, but to do it in such a fashion as to bring credit and distinction upon the people of California.

Speaking in the vast rotunda of the City Hall, in reply to an address of welcome by Mayor James Rolph Jr., the Republican Presidential nominee warmly thanked the people of California for the honor they had done him in presenting his name to the National Convention. His address followed a demonstration for him by crowds that lined the streets over the railroad station to City Hall. Just before noon, the reception had been postponed to the time of Hoover's return to Palo Alto because of the death of Mrs. Hoover's father.

Text of Hoover's Address.

The text of Hoover's response to the welcoming address of Mayor Rolph follows:

"I have been deeply touched by the manifestations I have received from my fellow townsmen of San Francisco and I wish to express my appreciation for the general and cordial reception which you and they have given to me.

"It has been one of the penalties of public service, to which I was called at the outbreak of the war, that I should have been so largely deprived of the joys of living in this neighborhood.

"I can go back, Mr. Mayor, in recollection even beyond the time that you became a public institution, even beyond that longest term which you have served amongst all Mayor in our great cities. I can recollect from experience when seals could be had for 15 cents and lodging for a quarter in this town, for it is now more than 33 years since I came to San Francisco, a youth in search of a job—and I got it.

"I recall work as Engineer. "Your office buildings have been my continuous base of operations since that time. From here I have been drafted amongst the army of California-trained engineers for service in different parts of the world, but with the completion of every campaign the lure of California has brought me to this home ground.

"San Francisco is responsible for my entry into public service. The rescue of this city took me to Europe in 1914, where I was caught in the maelstrom of the war. I was busily engaged on her behalf in negotiation with various Governments to secure their participation in your Panama-Pacific Exposition which celebrated the opening of the Canal. The war destroyed much of these arrangements, but I received a certificate entitling me to a silver medal for this service. I have, however, never had the medal.

Growth of Foreign Trade.
"During these past seven years I have had the duty as Secretary of Commerce of directing many Government services which greatly affect the welfare of San Francisco. One of these activities has been the aid of our Federal Government in building up foreign trade on the Pacific Coast. That trade is the most precious possession of this city. It is the basis of employment for a large part of our working people. It is the outlet for the surplus of our farmers in the great valleys.

"Our foreign trade has grown greatly since the war, until today, if we allow for the depreciated dollar, it is 50 per cent greater than before the war. In the meantime, the other great nations engaged in the war are only now recovering to the level of their pre-war trade. These other nations are now

350 INSANE GET AWAY IN $250,000 FIRE IN HOSPITAL

All but 15 Patients, Including Two Murderers, Back in Custody at Nashville, Tenn.

INMATES ROUTED AT MIDNIGHT

Some Help Fight Blaze While Others Flee in Disorder — Country Side Warned to Be on Lookout

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 27.—Fire that destroyed the administration building of the Central State Hospital for the insane near here early today sent the 1272 occupants scurrying for safety from the building. Guards who drove the inmates from the dormitories to save their lives, soon were dashing through the nearby woods and fields in an effort to round up the more dangerous patients and quiet those terror-stricken by the flames. Messengers were sent by police to warn residents for miles around.

Torches in the hands of guards blazed as they sought out the inmates known to be in danger and tried to form a cordon around the grounds. Most of the inmates stood at a distance watching the destruction of the two upper floors of the building, which was virtually a total loss, but others, screaming, fled down the road and into nearby fields. Some attempted to leap into automobiles as the glare of the blaze attracted spectators. A drizzling rain soaked them and caused men and women to shiver as they stood in their night clothes.

350 Patients Escaped. In all some 350 patients escaped for a time from the control of the guards but within a few hours a check showed that all, except 15, had been rounded up. Those still at large included two homicidal maniacs, Jesse McPherson of Nashville and Samuel Kemper of Wilson County, and another man listed as criminally insane.

No loss of life was reported despite the confusion that prevailed, but it was stated the fire gained such headway before two fire companies could arrive from Nashville, eight miles away, that all records of the institution, dating back to 1859, were thought to have been destroyed. It was feared this would make impossible identification of some patients.

Loss About $250,000. Nurses and guards who were housed in the building lost all their personal belongings. The loss was estimated at approximately $250,000. The cause of the fire, which apparently started on the roof, remained to be determined. The building was 50 years old.

Dr. W. S. Farmer, superintendent, one of the last to escape from the burning building, said today that the hospital would continue to run normally, but that no new patients could be admitted in months.

None of the patients or guards was injured during the fire, Dr. Farmer said.

Viennese Criminologist Declares Sixth Sense Makes Feat Possible.

By the Associated Press.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 27.—After helping to solve a murder mystery, Dr. Maximilian A. Langsner, Viennese criminologist, subdued two fighting cocks by what he said was hypnotism.

From Verno Booher Dr. Langsner obtained in 15 minutes information as to where he had hidden a rifle. Then Booher confessed he had killed his mother, brother and two farm hands. Dr. Langsner said he obtained his information by reception of thought.

Two fighting cocks, which Dr. Langsner had never seen before, were placed on a table where they immediately began fighting. Dr. Langsner, grasping the birds by the wings, concentrated his will on them. The cocks slowly quieted, their heads drooped and their respiration was the only sign they were alive. Laying the cocks side by side on the table, Dr. Langsner stepped back. He snapped his fingers, and the game cocks sprang up and began to fight again. Scientists, police officers and reporters saw the demonstration.

Dr. Langsner says that the act of thinking sends out wave vibrations similar to radio broadcasts. In every person, he asserts, there is an undeveloped sixth sense by which these waves can be received. This sixth sense, he declares, can be developed by training.

OVERDEVELOPMENT OF COAL MINES, SOURCE OF TROUBLE

Writer in "Illinois Miner" Also Deplores Use of Loading Machine.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 27.—Described as "one of the worst evils confronting our industry," loading machines in coal mines are also held to be inefficient and the enemy of "our aged miners," in a front page review of "conditions and what they mean to the Illinois miners," printed in the Illinois Miner, official publication, to be issued tomorrow.

Prepared by George L. Mercer, statistician for the Illinois mine workers, the review sets forth the attitude of miners on the eve of the next week's wage conference with the operators in Chicago. "Present competitive conditions," Mercer writes, "more than anything else are causing the operators to install loading machines. The Illinois operator finds himself compelled to meet the keen competition in the markets with the attitude of miners on the eve of the next week's wage conference with the operators in Chicago."

"Present competitive conditions," Mercer writes, "more than anything else are causing the operators to install loading machines. The Illinois operator finds himself compelled to meet the keen competition in the markets with the attitude of miners on the eve of the next week's wage conference with the operators in Chicago."

"We already have, not only in Illinois, but in the United States as well, more than twice as many mines and miners as are necessary to supply the market demand for coal. Overdevelopment is the great basic ill from which the mining industry is suffering."

TRIES TO ENJOIN RADIO DEVICE ON STREET AS NUISANCE

Oakdale (Cal.) Hotel Man Says His Guests Are Unable to Sleep Because of Noise.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OAKDALE, Cal.—Two nationally known radio manufacturers have sent representatives to this city to investigate details of the quiet brought by Henry Neubeaumer, hotel owner, against Gray & Co., seeking to enjoin the firm from use of a radio loud-speaker on a street. Neubeaumer seeks to have the speaker determined a public nuisance. Legal representatives of at least two companies will attend the court session.

In a demurrer to the action by David F. Bush for Gray & Co., it asserts that the facts are not sufficient to justify action and points out that the complaint made by Neubeaumer does not state whether objections are made to the playing of the loud-speaker or its position on the street.

Neubeaumer will amend his complaint, his attorneys state, to show that the loudspeaker made him a "nervous wreck and that it distressed roomers in his hotel."

The complaint says that the radio "caused loud, boisterous and excessive noises to come through said loud speaker by singing, talking, music and through street."

TWO CONVICTS SHOT AT ILLINOIS PRISON

Captured Within Half a Mile After Breakaway at Penitentiary at Menard.

By the Associated Press.

CHESTER, Ill., July 27.—Two convicts were shot and seriously wounded today in attempting to escape from the Southern Illinois penitentiary at Menard, near here.

They are Ralph Southard of St. Clair County and Harry Wilson of Christian County, both of whom were received at the prison in 1924 to serve sentences of from 10 years to life for robbery with arms.

The convicts, while cleaning up the yards, obtained a plank and placed it against the wall. J. A. Abbott, a guard, saw them, but they overpowered him and took his gun. They were scaling the wall when Capt. Nollan opened fire from a sentry box.

The men were captured within a half mile of the penitentiary and taken to the prison hospital where it was said their wounds were serious.

W. J. Barker of Chester and John A. Schaeffer of Marion, guards in charge of the prisoners, were discharged for negligence.

When he had finished, he had nothing left but his brave heart. In the horrid glare of 40 arc lamps Tom Heenev was ruthlessly stripped of his laurel and the rose, though like Cyrano De Bergerac, he retained his "panache." Yes, the British Empire will have to wait a little longer before a champion arises in its midst to bring the heavyweight title back to the country of its birth.

Mrs. Emma C. Hetzel, 51 years old, 1807 Nebraska avenue, died at City Hospital today of injuries suffered yesterday afternoon when she stumbled and fell under a People's motorbus at Broadway and Washington avenue.

TRUCK COMPETITION FOR FREIGHT IS DISCOURAGED

Popular Bluff Credit Association Asks Merchants to Ship by Railroad.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., July 27.—Urging merchants of Popular Bluff to continue to patronize the railroad lines, and frowning on the idea of establishing a motor freight line over the highways between Popular Bluff and St. Louis and Popular Bluff and Memphis, the Popular Bluff Credit Men's Association has adopted resolutions assuring railroads of the continuation of their patronage.

The resolutions insist that the two railroad lines entering Popular Bluff "are the greatest institutions which have contributed to the building of Popular Bluff and its community and are furnishing quick, safe and efficient transportation of freight and fully meeting all the commercial needs of the community." They also all attention to the fact that the railroads contribute a large amount in taxes to the county each year.

"Therefore," the resolutions conclude, "it is the sense of the Popular Bluff Credit Men's Association that the citizens and business men of Popular Bluff and Butler County should request and urge that all freight shipments to and from Popular Bluff and Butler County be made over the railroads, and it is the sense of this body that shipments of freight over any line of trucks should be discouraged."

ORD STARTS FIGHT ON BRITISH RUBBER TRUST

to Maker's Experts Leave for Brazil to Develop Industry for American Market.

The Associated Press
DETROIT, July 27.—Henry Ford moved to insure his organization against the possibility of a foreign monopoly of the world rubber supply.
The action involved the departure from here last night of Ford engineers and culturists for Brazil to develop the organization's recently acquired 5,000,000-acre rubber tract which Ford says will yield sufficiently enough rubber to make as for 2,000,000 cars.
The tract, located along the Amazon and Tapajós rivers, was purchased from the Brazilian government shortly after the British rubber monopoly made itself felt in the American market and sent prices soaring. Similar projects were inaugurated by the First National United States Rubber companies.

According to company officers, the Ford land already has some rubber trees and has been found to be well suited for intensive cultivation.
The expedition sailed from Detroit on the Ford motor ship, Lake Erie, which was outfitted for navigation for the next two years as an engineering and hospital base for the development work. The Lake Erie motor ship will be joined by the tow ship Lake Erie, to take an additional supply before continuing the 7,000-mile journey. The Lake Erie left Detroit July 11 with machinery and other supplies for the expedition. The Lake Erie's equipment includes a modern hospital, chemical and experimental laboratory, machine refrigerating plant.

The Ford expedition will accomplish its all-water journey from Detroit to Brazil by the following route: Down the Detroit River to Lake Erie, thence through the St.
Lawrence Canal to Lake Ontario, down the St. Lawrence River to its mouth in the Gulf of St.
Lawrence and into the Atlantic Ocean.

Plans call for employment of native labor for development and maintenance of the plantation. In addition to the rubber trees, the Ford tract has a great quantity of hard wood forests. It is planned to harvest millions of feet of Brazilian mahogany and other valuable hard woods for shipment to this country.

SHERIFF AND FOUR AIDS ARRESTED IN CAIRO DRY CLEANUP

One Federal Prohibition Agent Makes 80 Raids and Seizures in Wide-Open River Town.

OFFICERS CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY

Victor Dowd, Who Conducted Crusade in Madison County Dries Up Egypt's Oasis.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CAIRO, Ill., July 27.—Cairo, the big oasis in the Egypt of Southern Illinois, has become as wild as the Sahara since one prohibition agent, within a few months, made 80 raids and seizures and caused the arrest of Sheriff Leslie B. Roche and four of his deputies on charges of conspiracy to violate the Volstead act.

Prior to the advent of this inspector, Cairo, as in the heyday of the river, was a free and easy town.
A man could have his liquor with as little restraint as in the old days that are no more. Not so now. The drinkers of Cairo are puzzled and speaking easy.
On Aug. 15 Sheriff Roche and his deputies will have a hearing before United States Commissioner J. E. Clutta, at which they hope to clear the details of the charges against them. In September there will be a Federal grand jury at Danville and the prohibition agent,
Victor Dowd of Chicago, will take his informants before that body to swear in his case against the Sheriff.

Sheriff Charges Politics.
In the meantime, Sheriff Roche, who speaks lightly of the serious charge, is seeking to convince his friends in the details of the charges against him. In September there will be a Federal grand jury at Danville and the prohibition agent,
Victor Dowd of Chicago, will take
his informants before that body to

Found Cairo "Wide Open."
He made a survey at first of the situation in the county surrounding Cairo, and found things wide open. Then he moved that the condition could not exist without protection and began making raids and questioning victims concerning their sources of immunity.

The result of this investigation was confessions in affidavits from upon which he based his complaint against Sheriff Roche and the deputies. Dowd has said that he has made a strong case in this instance and expects to have additional information of importance before the grand jury meets in September.

Some notorious offenders were caught in Dowd's trap, among them George Crawford, former dry goods merchant in Cairo, now a grocer, who served a jail term in Harrisburg on a liquor charge. Crawford's wife, Lena, also was arrested.
Still, he was released and the operators questioned concerning the owners and sources of protection.

Dowd Seeks "Higher Ups."
Dowd's method differs importantly from the average prohibition agent. He is never content with ending his investigation in the arrest of a couple of foreigners who might be found operating a still, but works to learn the names of their employers or of officers who might have come to the moonshine plant for their "cut" in money or alcohol. Dowd has said that there is nearly a half million in "higher up" behind a moonshine still.

In the case of Sheriff Roche and his deputies, the Government will attempt to prove that he had knowledge of moonshine operations throughout the county and that he did not stop them; that moonshiners and bootleggers looked to him for immunity from arrest, which,
if true, would constitute conspiracy, for which there is a penalty of two years in the penitentiary and a maximum fine of $10,000. It is charged also in the warrants against the Sheriff that he and his deputies manufactured, sold and transported liquor. This would mean that someone has told Dowd the Sheriff's office was interested in the ownership or operation of stills and the sale of whiskey.

Police Chief Aids in Raids.
Dowd was not in Cairo when the Post-Dispatch correspondent called, but Chief of Police Kelsey, who has assisted Dowd in raids, said the prohibition agent from Chicago had ample evidence upon which to base the warrants for Sheriff Roche and his deputies.

"Conditions have been very bad in Alexander County," said Chief Kelsey, "and Dowd has seen for himself. Roadhouses have been visited under cover and found wide open. The drink of glasses was heard everywhere, and whiskey flowed freely. Dowd has cleaned structed in swimming and life-saving.

everything up. He has cut the lines of protection and some people in high places are in bad."

Sheriff Roche has been in office two years. Prior to that his father, James E. Roche, was Sheriff and the present Sheriff was chief deputy. He is 38 years old, and a clean-cut looking man.

"I dislike to think Dowd would deliberately frame me," said the Sheriff, when asked about the charges,
"but I believe he is being used by my political enemies. I was chairman of the County Central Committee, supporting Emmerson for Governor, and Mayor Bode, my political enemy, was chairman of the committee supporting Small. Emmerston won, as you know, and Mayor Bode went to Chicago, presumably for a surgical operation. A short time later the details of the charges against me came here and had us arrested. I will have no trouble showing a political conspiracy to get me out of office."

"As to the charges of manufacturing, selling and transporting liquor, they are not only untrue, but ridiculous. Our record is in good order and we have nothing to fear from an honest hearing. I have made innumerable raids and seizures of stills, and have been convicted at least a score of men on liquor charges since I became Sheriff. No one in our office has protected anyone, and no one has any proof from a reliable source that we have."

Mayor Bode could not be reached, but has denied any connection with the assignment of Dowd to Alexander County.

The deputies arrested with Sheriff Roche were Chief Deputy Ernest Rink, Louis C. Kent, father-in-law of Sheriff Roche, H. P.
Reddick and Joseph Mulham. All were released on bonds of $10,000.

G. L. RENO PARTISANS ACCUSE
J. N. MCKELVEY OF TRICKERY

Twenty-third Ward Republican Organization Assails Former Public Safety Director.

The Twenty-third Ward Republican organization, backing George L. Reno for committee man, is distributing circulars accusing Reno's opponent, James N. McKelvey, of political trickery.

Reno, who is chief boiler inspector for the city, formerly worked for nine years under McKelvey, who was Director of Public Safety under Mayor Kiel. When Reno and McKelvey filed for committee man, a "sterling" "George L. Reno" also filed. The latter, according to the ward organization's circulars, was a mythical candidate sponsored by McKelvey in an effort to confuse voters and take votes from the "living, human" Reno.

George L. Reno went into court and obtained an order striking the name of "George E. Reno" from ballots. McKelvey since has had circulars printed announcing the withdrawal of "George E. Reno" in favor of McKelvey's candidacy, opponents of McKelvey charge.

McKelvey denies he has anything to do with any Mr. Reno.

Although Harding and Coolidge both carried Maryland, Ritchie said
the State's eight electoral votes were safe this year for Smith.

Although he was ready to do whatever the Democratic National Committee called upon him for, Ritchie did not expect to stump
the State's eight electoral votes.
He thought he would make a few campaign speeches outside his State.

HOOVER ACCORDED NOISY WELCOME IN SAN FRANCISCO

emerging from the destruction of war. The outlook of the world today is for the greatest era of commercial expansion in history.

Predicts Better Business.
"The rest of the world will become better customers. They will have larger demands, but they will also become stronger competitors for the markets of the Orient. In this new era of expansion, the whole Pacific Coast will have a large part to play."

"With the high skill and leadership in her merchants, her manufacturers, her shipping men, this coast has a bright future in this period of world expansion."

"Upon my every return to San Francisco I see increasing growth, increasing comfort in homes, increasing beauty in the city. This incoming flood of prosperity, if it be guided aright, will enable you to add further to the beauty of the city and the comfort of its people."

Hopes to Justify Confidence.
"Mr. Mayor, you were among those gentlemen who did me the great honor of selecting me for the leadership of a great political party through my nomination as President of the United States. My name was presented to that political party by the people of California. It was a mark of their confidence and their esteem."

"Words are difficult vehicles through which to convey the pride which men may rightfully feel at such a mark of esteem from their fellow citizens, and an obligation rests on my side that I shall not only represent the great political party which has designated me for leadership, but that I shall do it in such a fashion as to bring credit and distinction upon the people of California."

"I think you, Mr. Mayor, for the personal part you have played in these events, and I wish to thank my fellow citizens of California for the high confidence they have placed upon me."

In welcoming the presidential nominee on behalf of the city and people of San Francisco, Mayor Rolph said the nation was upon an era unique in the story of American progress.

"That era will bear a great name," he said, "it is to be the Hoover era."

Mayor Reviews Hoover's Fight.
At the outset the Mayor reviewed the early struggles of Hoover in San Francisco, at Stanford University and later as a young mining engineer, and then paid high tribute to his accomplishments in the making of the European war, in which he was caught while abroad as the representative of the Panama Pacific exposition here.

"The country called upon his genius to save the lives of millions in Belgium, later Germany and Central Europe, and still later to direct American famine relief in Russia," Rolph said. "How magnificently accomplished that public service, the world will testify."

"Then came a call from a President to work at home. He taught the American people how to save.
Two Presidents invited him to preside over the Department of Commerce. Another avenue for public service, but in the midst of a splendid work came the emergency of the Mississippi disaster, the greatest in the history of the United States. The President and the country turned to the man who knew what to do, and again suffering human beings, our own people, found hope and salvation in his guiding hand."

In addition to the San Francisco reception, Hoover's program called for programs in towns along the 30 miles of the peninsula stretching southward from the Golden Gate.

With much of his day taken up with the homecoming celebrations, Hoover had little time to give to political conferences and his acceptance speech, and since he is to depart early tomorrow for a long automobile trip into the Northern California woods, these things will have to wait for the better part of a week.

During his last full day at home,

COPS ACTING QUEERLY? IT'S WATER IN THE EAR

Awkward Squad of Swimming Class Has Extra Trouble
These Days.

Those who may notice the policemen on his beat acting queerly, pausing every few steps, for instance, to shake his head vigorously, and then resting it on one shoulder and pounding the other side of his skull, need not become alarmed. The heat has nothing to do with it. More likely he is trying to get the water out of his ears.

That is one of the troubles of the awkward squad of swimmers taking the police live-saving course.
Some 300 of the force have had three lessons since Chief Gerke, three weeks ago, called on the Red Cross to furnish instruction to the officers in swimming and life saving.

All policemen appointed by the present commissioners are required to take the course, which will continue until September, and others have enrolled of their own initiative.

Classes are conducted Wednesday, Friday and Saturday at the Battery A pool by Fred Potthoff and R. E. Legat of the Red Cross.
The policemen have been divided into three groups. Class A, numbered 60, is for life-saving methods; Class B, for 80 swimmers not yet considered expert, and Class C for the awkward squad.

The awkward squad was splashing about when a reporter visited the pool Wednesday. Splashing, gurgling to keep from swallowing water, trying to shake water from their ears and at the same time listen to the compelling voice of Fred Potthoff as he counted rhythmically, teaching them an overhand stroke.

"One-two-three-four" he counted over and over again. "One-two-three-four, keep your chin in the water there, don't try to overdo it, but get a hold of the water. Keep your arms up on the return stroke!
Don't try to kick yet!"

And the traffic men, accustomed to giving orders like that, but not receiving them, tried valiantly to keep up with the rapid-fire instructions, but some had to give up before the lesson was over.

The lesson finished, Potthoff lined them up in the shallow water and spoke briefly of the value of the course and the necessity for taking seriously. "Are there any of you who don't think you have made some progress?" he asked.
Half of them shook their heads.
They were shaking water from their ears.

Mrs. Sophie Kohn Dies.
Mrs. Sophie Kohn, 70 years old, died of heart disease today at the home of her son, Marcus Kohn, insurance broker, of 5122 Westminster place. She was the widow of William Kohn, also an insurance broker, who died 25 years ago.

Then came a call from a President to work at home. He taught
the American people how to save.
Two Presidents invited him to preside over the Department of Com-

EDWIN W. GROVE ESTATE APPRAISED AT $10,000,000

Executor Files Inventory of Patent Medicine Magnate's Property—Debts Amount to $4,000,000.

Grove, former small town drug clerk who made a fortune out of a patented cold remedy, is valued at more than $10,000,000, according to estimates based on the inventory filed for probate yesterday by the St. Louis Union Trust Co., his executor.

Grove, whose home was at 4631
Westminster place, died Jan. 27, 1927, in Asheville, N. C., where he had large real estate holdings. He was 76 years old. His riches were due to countless experiments he performed to disguise the bitter taste of quinine in a cold pill, and to advertising his products.

The total appraised value of the estate was $5,653,504.34. This figure is held to be low by at least $50,000, owing to the valuation of Grove's 66.41 shares of Paris Medicine stock at only $66.41. The stock is said to be worth at least $7500 a share. At the time of Grove's death, the Paris Medicine Co., of whose stock he owned two-thirds, was said to be worth $10,- 000,000 on the basis of its earnings.

Perfect "Tasteless Quinine."
He was the founder and president of the Paris Medicine Co., which has offices and buildings at 2520 Pine street. It was so called because Grove was operating a small drug shop in Paris, Tenn., when he conceived the idea of "tasteless quinine," and it was from citizens of Paris, Tenn., that he received his first backing in dollars.

Against the estate, there are outstanding obligations amounting to about $4,000,000.

After Grove's death in 1927, Probate Judge Holtcamp allowed Grove's estate to loan amounting to $1,275,000 to a St. Louis bank.
The claims from Asheville amounted to about $2,000,000.

Judge Holtcamp allowed another uncontested claim of more than $1,000,000 to attorneys for their services in the estate. In the suit brought by Grove's son-in-law, Fred L. Seely, of Asheville, seeking control of the company, Seely later withdrew the action when it was being tried here in Circuit court.

The remainder of the indebtedness is on claims for which Grove is said to have assumed contingent liability before his death.

Holdings in 12 Communities.
The extent to which the patent medicine magnate invested in real estate is shown in the inventory by extensive land holdings, in 12 different communities, valued conservatively at $3,639,071.05. Among the listed properties is the Battery Park Hotel at Asheville, estimated to be worth at least $1,400,000, but appraised at $750,000. The Bon Marche building in Asheville, also a Grove holding, is appraised at $400,000 in the inventory. The Arcade Plaza lot in Asheville is appraised at $210,000, and Margo Terrace, a palatial property there, at $100,000.

Among the former drug clerk's Buncombe County (North Carolina) holdings, which amounted altogether to $1,927,801, was the Grove Park Inn, a society resort, held to be worth $875,000 in the inventory. The hotel, however, was sold last March to Hamilton & Co., bankers of Baltimore, for about $1,000,000. The sale price included more than 2000 shares of the Asheville Country Club, for which Grove paid originally $114,750. The stock is listed in the inventory as doubtful.

More than 250 acres on Sunset Mountain, also in Buncombe County, are valued at $165,000.

Home Appraised at $23,400.
Grove's St. Louis residence is held to be worth $23,400. Ninety-seven acres in St. Louis County are appraised at $14,640. Other realty in the list is: Land in St. Petersburg, Fla., $25,000; in Volusia County, Fla., $4400; in Atlanta, Ga., $2500; in McDowell County,
N. C., $300; in Madison County, N.
C., $68,75; in Rutledge County,
N. C., $500; in Cocke County, Tenn., $7500; and in Monongalia County, W. Va., $17,500.

Unsecured notes of E. W. Grove Jr., son of the medicine manufacturer, total $129,367, and are listed as of doubtful value. The son contends the claims were canceled at his father's death under the terms of the will.

Among the stocks listed as of doubtful value are 50,000 shares in the Grove-Dowling Hardware Co. of Florida, which, if appraised at par value of $100, would be worth alone $5,000,000. The next largest block of stock in the Grove Land and Timber Co., a Missouri corporation, of which Grove owned 4000 shares, with a par value of $400,- 000.

Stock in St. Louis Banks.
One hundred shares in the Albermarle Park Company are valued at $100,000 and 675 shares of stock in the Grove Store and Sand
Co. of North Carolina at $67,500.
Six hundred and eighty-three shares of stock in the First National Bank of St. Louis are listed at

MAN WITH CLINKING BOTTLES LEADS OFFICER TO HIS STILL

Tells Lieut. Agee About the Flasks and What He Intended to Put in Them.

Police Lieutenant Agee encountered a man with a bundle at Broadway and Bissell street at 5:30 p. m. yesterday. The bundle clinked.

"What's in that bundle?" demanded Agee. "Empty bottles," replied the man.

"What are the bottles for?" "I got a little still at home," was the frank reply. "I'm going to fill up the bottles and take them up to Chain of Rocks and sell them to the boys who work for the city there."

"Would you mind showing me your still?" "Not at all."

So Agee followed the man to his home, and confiscated a small still, 35 gallons of whisky in kegs, 40 gallons of home-brew and a quantity of mash.

Application for a warrant against the bootlegger was refused for lack of a search warrant. The man was released, but police kept the still and the other stuff.

Reed to Speak in Kansas City.
By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 27.—
Senator Reed will make his first speech in the Missouri senatorial campaign Monday night before the Kansas City Collet-for-Senator Club. His address will be in behalf of Collet, will be broadcast by radio station WDAF beginning at 9 o'clock. "I will discuss the issues
I think are important in the campaign and in its primary," said Reed, announcing the speaking date.

$68,300, although worth $221,975, and 100 shares of St. Louis Union Trust Co. are listed at $10,000, while worth $36,000.

There are six notes totaling $776,320 against the Floraline Realty Corporation, which are listed as very doubtful and for-closed. There are 18 notes amounting to $150,000 against F. E.
Lykes & Co., and one note against the Battery Park Investment Co.
for $75,000, which also are listed in the doubtful column.

The remainder of the personality consists of cash, $132,845; bonds, $25,500; and chattels, $5439.25.
Grove left his estate in trust for his widow and his two children, Edwin W. Grove Jr., and Mrs.
Evelyn Grove Seely, to share equially the income of the estate during their lives, the estate then to pass to descendants or collateral heirs.

Mrs. Grove renounced the will in a stipulation claiming her dower rights and received one-third of the estate outright. She died June 20, leaving a will in which she conveyed her entire share to Edwin W. Grove Jr., and failed to mention Mrs. Seely, her stepdaughter.

The St. Louis Union Trust Co. was also named executor by Mrs.
Grove.

GEORGE MAKES PLEA FOR PARTY LOYALTY

Defeated Presidential Candidate Says Bolters Will Join Ancient Enemy.

By the Associated Press.

AMERICUS, Ga., July 27.—Declaring that those who abandon the Democratic party in the November election will not have entered any new movement "but will have joined forces with the ancient enemy," United States Senator George in an address yesterday at the Union School House made an appeal for strict loyalty to the Democratic ticket. It was his first public address since the Houston convention, at which he was a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"The public affairs of this country always have been conducted through political parties," he said. "If we break down the party system we will go to all directions and get nowhere. Of course, it is silly and idle for any intelligent man to say that his party can never be wrong. Party loyalty after all is based upon love of country, and parties should be held strictly responsible for the Government of our country."

"Governor Smith went into that convention as I did. He was aided by the two-thirds rule. He took his chances with the rest of us. I did not agree then, do not agree now, and never expect to agree with Governor Smith on many vital issues, yet he is the regular nominee of a regular Democratic convention."

"The Democratic party is the traditional party of the South. It is the party that protected us during reconstruction days that tried the souls of men and women. "If under the dictates of your consciences you feel that you ought to abandon the Democratic party, then of course, you have the right to do so; but I want to remind you that you are not joining any new movement. You have joined forces with the ancient enemy. The time has come to do some deep thinking and to weigh things as they really are."

EIGHT MORE INDICTMENTS

IN COUNTY INVESTIGATION

Total of Sixteen True Bills So Far Returned by Special Grand Jury.

The special St. Louis County grand jury, investigating conditions in the county, returned eight more indictments in Circuit Judge Mulloy's court yesterday, making a total of 16 indictments returned since the investigation began.

The contents of the eight indictments were withheld pending the arrest of the defendants named.

The previous eight indictments had all been executed by the arrest of the persons named with the exception of one against "Charles M. Black," charged as an associate of Anthony P. Foley in the operation of gambling houses and which is said to be a fictitious name.

Yesterday the jury questioned but one witness, Tobe Geno, City Marshal of Florissant, St. Ferdinand Township, who charged last winter that he was kidnapped and threatened by Deputy Constables of that township.

GERMANS ROUSED WHEN FRANCE BACKS COURTMARTIAL ORDER

Demand for Extradition of Men Sentenced for Insulting Tri-Color Resented.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 27.—A French demand for the extradition of three Germans sentenced by a French courtmartial at Landau to five years' imprisonment for tearing down the French flag from the officers' casino at Zweibrücken apparently is causing some friction. The newspapers demand that Foreign Minister Stresemann refuse to go to Paris to sign the Kellogg outlawry of war pact if the French claim is insisted upon.

"We never would have believed that France would give us such a striking proof of our serfdom and lack of liberty at a moment when numerous people in Germany had begun to hope for French conciliation and when continuation of the occupation is described in Paris as a formality," says an editorial in Germania.

Federal Agents Use Name of Man Whose Wife Had Complained to Gain Admittance.

Gaining admittance by using the name of a man whose wife had complained, Federal prohibition agents raided a suite of offices on the second floor of 522 Pine street, at the southeast corner of Sixth and Pine streets, and seized a quantity of beer and whisky.

After buying a half-pint of whisky for $1, the raiders seized 114 quarts of beer and one-half gallon of whisky. James Burkitt was arrested.

Illinois G. O. P. Name Yates.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 27.—Richard Yates, present Congressman at Large, was nominated by acclamation by the Republican State Central Committee to take the place of the late Henry R. Rathbone, nominee for Congressman at Large to succeed himself on the State Republican ticket. Yates, who ran third in the primary election when he sought renomination, was chosen after the names of Edward Goetz of Chicago and Nelson D. Leyman of Duquoin were withdrawn, the latter by Thomas B. F. Smith of Carbondale.

CHARGE OF CARELESSNESS AGAINST WOMAN DRIVER

Mrs. T. R. Dunn Parks Car to Go to Movie and Brakes Fail to Hold.

A charge of careless driving was preferred against Mrs. T. R. Dunn, 46 years old, 832 Sixty-second street, East St. Louis, because the brakes on her Studebaker coach, which she parked in front of 316 Market street yesterday afternoon while she attended a movie theater, failed to hold, causing the car to roll down hill to 301 Market, where it jumped the curb and injured Emanuel Victorio, 57, who was seated in front of that address.

After striking Victorio, who suffered a fractured right leg and internal injuries, the machine smashed a mail box, which brought an additional charge of destruction of property against Mrs. Dunn, who did not learn of the accident until she left the theater an hour after it occurred.

PARIS, July 27.—Three members of a gang alleged to be responsible for the assassination of Khalil Saleeby, a Syrian, and his American wife, the former Carrie Eird of Lexington, Ky., have been arrested near the Syrian frontier. The authorities stated the men had made a complete confession, and that they would be tried soon.

Coolidge Catches More Fish Than Law Allows

But Presence of Guide in Canoe Keeps Him Technically Within the Provisions of Wisconsin Statute.

By the Associated Press.
SUPERIOR, Wis., July 27.—President Coolidge's success as an angler and Wisconsin game regulations fixing a maximum trout catch per day, appeared to have become entangled when reports came today from the Summer White House that the chief executive, in a long fishing day last Wednesday, had caught 26 trout and thereby had exceeded by one the maximum allowed by the law.

On that day Mr. Coolidge started out on the Brule early in the morning, and with only a brief interruption for luncheon remained fishing until past 6 o'clock in the evening. The trout were plentiful and he made the most of his opportunities, keeping John Larock, his Indian guide, busy netting his catches. He caught four black spotted, eight Rainbow, three Lochleven and 11 Brook trout. In addition Larock threw back eight fish which did not comply with other game laws prohibiting the catching of trout less than seven inches in length.

Larock's presence in the canoe with Mr. Coolidge probably will prevent the latter's reported performance from being interpreted as a violation of the game regulations. Should the Chippewa guide be counted in as a member of the fishing party, then the maximum catch allowed would be 50 for the day.

What Flies Coolidge Used.
President Coolidge used only flies for his catches. He was specially lucky on Wednesday with the Royal Coachman, the Grizzly King and the Professor. Larock chose the flies for him, changing them on his line when circumstances seemed to warrant it. Most of the time the chief executive fished with two flies on the same line, frequently obtaining two strikes simultaneously.

A seven-foot rod, with a silk line seemed to give Mr. Coolidge the best results, although he had brought other rods with him.

A long list of appointments to receive the respects of a variety of persons and organizations, awaited President Coolidge today at the summer executive offices on his regular Friday trip to Superior from Cedar Island Lodge.

Plans Fishing Trip.
Charles Schallitz, Sheriff of Milwaukee had the first engagement, followed by a committee of the Superior Bar Association, Mayor Fred Baxter of Superior, Representative Cars of Minnesota, and the local chapter of the Daughters of Union Veterans.

Before leaving for the city, however, Mr. Coolidge had organized a little fishing relaxation which he planned to resume in the afternoon.

Mr. Coolidge went fishing after he returned to the lodge in the late afternoon from throwing out the first ball at the opening game of the Head of the Lakes baseball tournament.

The attendance of Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, at the game drew a record-crowd to Superior's small baseball park.

This was the first time Mr. Coolidge has appeared at any public function in Superior. He was received by a committee including the Mayors of both Superior and Duluth. Mr. Coolidge watched the game for three innings.

COUNTY OFFICER FREES CUCKOOS HELD AT INQUEST

Deputy Dodd Overrules Coroner's Verdict Involving Tommy Hayes and Tony Bettros.

FORMER RE-ARRESTED BY ST. LOUIS POLICE

Autos Used in Italian Gang Killings Belonged to Two Whose Detention Was Recommended.

Two Cuckoo gangsters, Tommy Hayes and Tony Bettros, were ordered held today by a Coroner's jury at Kirkwood for the murder of James Russo and Mike Longo, rival Italian gangsters, who were shot to death on a lot at Sutter and Plymouth avenues, University City, Wednesday afternoon.

Despite the jury's order, Hayes and Bettros were released a short time later by Chief Deputy Dodd, with the assent of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Noble, who said the evidence against the men did not justify their detention.

As Hayes was released, he was taken in custody again, this time by St. Louis police, who will hold him pending investigation of a gang shooting in the city in which three men were wounded, two hours after the county murder.

The jury's verdict read that Russo and Longo were killed by men using the automobiles of Hayes and Bettros, and recommended that Hayes and Bettros be held for trial. Police testified to tracing Bettros' Buick car from the murder scene to his home at 2126A Oregon avenue, where he was arrested and the car seized. Tony Webb, Cuckoo gangster, arrested yesterday, was turned over to authorities at Belleville, where he was accused of jumping a $20,000 bond a year ago in a robbery case.

Wounded Men Recovering.
Jack Griffin, gangster shot when Russo and Longo were killed, and Vincent Spicuzza, Joseph Spicuzza and James Pace, fruit merchants, shot two hours later at their store on "Commission Row" downtown, are recovering from their wounds.

Hayes was arrested yesterday in a house at 2447 Albin avenue, St. Louis County, where police, to their surprise, also found and arrested Michaels. He was turned over to authorities at Belleville, where last year he forfeited a $20,000 bond to escape trial for the $2900 Illinois Central holdup in East St. Louis, in October, 1925. Michaels also had been implicated in the holdup at the Union-Easton Trust Co., St. Louis, but the principal witness disappeared, and the Circuit Attorney dismissed indictments against Michaels and his co-defendants.

Hayes has been arrested 59 times. In 1922 he was sentenced to five years in Leavenworth Penitentiary for complicity in the $46,000 Woodruff, Ill., mail hold-up. He was paroled in 1925. By going to Federal prison, Hayes escaped trial in State Court for a Delmar boulevard filling station safe robbery in which he and Milford Jones were caught red-handed.

Jones, another Cuckoo, got a five-year term at Boonville Reformatory for the safe robbery. Claims Abandoned Car.
The Chrysler automobile of Charles Spicuzza, 6129 Clayton avenue, found abandoned at Big Bend road and Pershing avenue, University City, Wednesday night, has been claimed by Spicuzza, who said he lent it that morning to Longo, a salesman employed at Spicuzza's wholesale fruit store at Third street and Franklin avenue.

How the car came to be abandoned has not been explained. Charles Palmisano, partner of Charles Spicuzza, was assassinated at his store last November after refusing demands of extortionists. Last January Dominic Cataldo and Tony DiTrapani were killed at Spicuzza's home when they called there, presumably to extort money.

Funeral services for Russo and Longo will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from their respective residences, without church services. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery. Russo, who lived at 1218 North Sixth street, is survived by his widow, parents, sister and four brothers, Willie, Tom, Francis and Lawrence. Longo, who lived at 1017 North Eighth street, is survived by his widow and mother.

SOUTHERN BISHOPS DEFEND DRY STAND

Leaders of M. E. Church, South, Justify Fight on Gov. Smith.

By the Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., July 27.—Replying to charges of carrying the church into politics, four Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, have declared their outspoken opposition to Gov. Smith is justified and asserted they "will not be driven from the field."

In a joint statement Bishops James Cannon Jr., of Richmond, John W. Moore of Dallas, Edwin Mouson of Charlotte, and Horace M. Dubose of Nashville last night declared their activities were in accord with official pronouncements of the church.

"It would be unthinkable repudiation of our personal responsibility as Christian citizens and a base betrayal of those who have a right to look to us for moral leadership," they said, "to retire from the field at this critical juncture."

The statement referred to utterances of Bishop Warren A. Canine of Atlanta and Bishop Collins Denny of Richmond, emphasizing the "non-political mission and work of the church," and asserting that the position of the church "on the subject of personal and party politics" had been proclaimed authoritatively by its leaders from the beginning of its history as a Christian body.

In response it was asserted that Bishop Canine had drawn his position from statements made by Bishops before 1894 and that prohibition had come to the front as a political issue since that time.

"We emphasize," the statement continued, "that in the Episcopal address of 1923 it is declared that it is incumbent upon every good citizen (ministers and laymen) to work for the placing in power of men who are sincere friends of the law."

"Also in the last recorded action of the general conference (1926) it is declared: 'That in our state—from Constable to Governor—and in the nation—from revenue agent to President—officials must be selected who believe in enforcement not only because prohibition is the law, but because it ought to be the law,' and all our people (ministers as well as laymen) are called upon to exert their full influence as Christians and as patriotic citizens of our republic."

"We notify the defenders and the advocates of the liquor traffic that the moral forces of the country will not be driven from the field by the cry that they are 'bringing the church into politics' because they are opposing the election to the presidency of a man whose personal and official record brands him as the outstanding enemy of national prohibition for which great reform we have ourselves not only as citizens, but also as Christian ministers, been working for years."

THE REV. BENJAMIN HORTON DIES FOLLOWING OPERATION
Son of Mrs. Mary B. Horton of St. Louis Had Lived in Chicago Since Entering Ministry.

The Rev. Benjamin Horton, assistant director of the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer in Chicago, died in a hospital there yesterday, following an operation for appendicitis. He was the son of Mrs. Mary B. Horton of 7155 Pershing avenue, and of the late William M. Horton, former member of the City Council.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at Christ Church Cathedral, with burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery. A native of St. Louis, the Rev. Mr. Horton had lived in Chicago since entering the ministry seven years ago. During the summer of 1921 he filled the pulpit of the Church of the Redeemer in St. Louis. He was 35 years old.

GLASGOW GREET'S U. S. CLANS
Two Thousand Scotch-Americans Visit Island.

By the Associated Press.
GLASGOW, July 27.—Craft of all kinds from rowboats to pleasure steamers, each with a pipe aboard, greeted the liners Transylvania and Caledonia as they came up the River Clyde this morning with 2400 of Scotland's American clansmen on board.

Nell Shaw, secretary of the Highland Association, boarded the Transylvania and officially welcomed the Americans, who were headed by Royal Chief Duncan MacInnes of the Order of Scottish Clans. Flags and bunting fluttered everywhere. After disembarking MacInnes and other officials went to place a wreath on the cenotaph prior to their reception by the Lord Provost.

SHANNON THROWS SUPPORT TO WILSON FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Leader of Kansas City Democratic Faction Expected to Back Collet for Senatorship.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 27.—Joseph B. Shannon, local Democratic factional leader, last night announced he would support Francis M. Wilson for the Democratic nomination for the governorship. There had been reports that Shannon intended to support Wilson's principal opponent, State Senator A. L. McCawley of Carthage.

Shannon returned after an extended vacation and his statement last night followed a conference with Wilson in Platte City. Shannon said he believed Wilson would make the strongest nominee.

"There are four reasons," he said. "First, Wilson is an experienced legislator, having served in the State Senate and having been close to legislative matters for many years. Second, his experience as United States District Attorney here has given him a knowledge of Federal government, a knowledge that would be valuable to a Governor. Third, he is a competent business man, as demonstrated by his record as one of the receivers for the Kansas City Street Railway Co. Last, but not least, he is acquainted with the problems of both the city and the country."

"Wilson lives in Platte County, a typical rural community, despite its closeness to Kansas City, and at the same time has had his business offices in Kansas City for many years. There are few men so fortunate in this respect, and it is a great asset to any candidate. He appeals both to the city and rural voters."

While Shannon made no announcement as to his faction's choice as between Charles M. Hay and James A. Collet in the senatorial race, it is thought by those close to Shannon he will support Collet. Collet and Shannon have been friends for years and served together in the State Constitutional Convention.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 27.—Three Federal prohibition agents from Kansas City raided the Oange River Bridge Inn, a roadhouse, five miles south of here, yesterday, arrested two of the owners and confiscated 10 gallons of alcohol, 250 pinis of beer, a quantity of gin, whisky and wine, gambling tables and equipment. The roadhouse is on the Oange River at the junction of Highways 50 and 54. The men arrested said they were Raymond Burns and "Slick" Ewing. RADIO BOARD DEFERS BROADCASTING RULING Extends 126 Licenses Until Sept. 1 When New Allocation Plan Is Expected.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The Federal Radio Commission today extended until Sept. 1 the licenses of 126 broadcasting stations whose cases are pending under an order which cited 142 stations to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked Aug. 1.

The licenses of the remaining 36 stations were revoked by the commission or voluntarily surrendered by the broadcasters.

Judge Ira E. Robinson, chairman of the commission, said the extension order should not be construed as a decision by the commission that the continued operation of these stations will serve public interest. The extension was granted to enable the commission to give further study to the merits of these cases.

One station, WBBJ at New York City, which gave up its license voluntarily to clear the tangled situation, did not come under the commission's disapproval. The other withdrawing stations WBLM, Cambridge, Mass.; WSAX, Chicago, and KOOS, Marshfield, Ore., had first been notified to show cause for their continued existence or stop sending.

The usual period for license extension is 60 days, and the one month extension in the present cases is taken as an indication that the long-awaited new allocation plan of the commission will be ready Sept. 1.

The stations the licenses of which have been revoked were:

Zone 1—WRAH, Providence, R. I.; WRES, Quincy, Mass.; WGOP, Flushing, N. Y.; WCON, Danbury, Conn.; and WOKT, Birmingham, N. Y.

Zone 2—WBBP, Petoskey, Mich.; WGM, Jeannette, Pa.; and WABW, Wooster, O.

Zone 3—None.

Zone 4—WLBQ, Galesburg, Ill.; WLB, Wenona, Ill.; WFBZ, Galesburg, Ill.; WLBT, Crown Point, Ind.; WJBC, Chicago Heights, Ill.; WLBQ, Atwood, Ill.; WPEP, Wanegans, Ill.; WRAH, Galesburg, Ill.; WFKZ, Chicago, Ill.; WLTS, Chicago, Ill.; KFHL, Oskaloosa, Ia.; WMBE, White Bear Lake, Minn.; KGHG, Slayton, Minn.; KGEQ, Minneapolis, Minn.; KFOK, Omaha, Neb.; WKDA, South Kenosha, Wis.; KGFN, Atlanta, M. D.; KGFH, Iowa City, Ia.; KPNP, Muscatine, Ia.; KFDZ, Minneapolis, Minn.; KFMR, Sioux City, Ia.; WFAM, St. Cloud, Minn.; KGOY, Oldham, S. D.; and KFTZ, Fond du Lac, Wis.

Zone 5—KFUT, Salt Lake City, Utah; KFUS, Oakland, Cal.; and KFFR, Los Angeles, Cal.

FAVORS GRAND JURY INQUIRY IN WRECKING OF HITCHRACK

Prosecutor Aroused When Masked Men for Second Time Smash Neeboho (Mo.) Convenience.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CARTHAGE, Mo., July 27.—Prosecuting Attorney Justin Ruark of Newton County announced today he would ask Judge Hanson to call a special grand jury for Newton County to investigate the destruction before daylight Wednesday morning of a hitchrack around the Newton County Courthouse Square at Neeboho.

Twenty men, working with sledge hammers, hacksaws and a big truck wrecked the concrete posts, removed the chain which the posts supported and pulled up the posts. Citizens who were awakened by the noise were met by masked guards at approaches to the business district and advised to return home and say nothing.

The hitchracks were erected 14 years ago after old wooden posts and chains had been demolished by a mob. For some time recently there has been agitation for removal of hitchracks as not becoming a modern community.

Ask your children and they'll select the bread that was your mother's favorite 37 years ago!

FIRST in the favor of St. Louis for 37 years . . . only a remarkable bread can hold a record like that!

And Baby Label is a remarkable bread. It was wonderfully delicious 37 years ago . . . the first bread that was good enough to win women from their own home-baked bread.

Well browned, shapely loaves . . . even, fine-grained texture . . . delicate yet full flavor . . . Baby Label tasted like the best bread that good housewives ever baked themselves.

And they could depend on it! Baby Label, they found, was always the same. Fresh as often as they wanted it. No wearisome mixing and kneading and "rising" and baking.

No wonder your mother and mine became enthusiastic about this wonderful new "bought" bread! No wonder women by the thousands gave up home baking forever!

Today, Madam, you can buy this same Baby Label Bread . . . If anything, you'll find it even more delicious than in your mother's day.

The very first time you taste it you'll understand its success. You'll find the quality of Baby Label uniformly good. There

LOT AND PASSENGER KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Demonstrating Machine to Prospective Purchaser
When It Falls.

NEWARK, R. I., July 27.—A man and his passenger were burned to death when their plane burst into flames as it crashed to the ground at Pothier flying field here last night.

The victims were Osmond Mat-ther of Hartford, Conn., piloting a monoplane, and Clifton D.
Thompson of Foxboro, Mass.

Jack Ashcraft, pilot, suffered severe burns on the arms when he made an attempt to open the cabin door of the plane to free the occupants.

Mrs. Thompson, whom Thompson married when serving in France in the United States aviation forces, saw the accident.

She did not know at first that her husband was in the plane.
When she was told, she tried to jump into the burning ruins.

A witness declared the plane, which Mather was demonstrating to Thompson with a view to selling it, had been stunting at what appeared to be a dangerously low altitude. About 200 yards from the flying field it attempted to turn, the tail swung up and the little plane plunged to earth.

Mather also was a former army flyer.

PURITANS OF PARIS FROWN ON STUDENTS

Quatz' Arts Ball Latest Object of Protest—Reformers Are Active.

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.
Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

PARIS, July 14.—The police of Paris having failed to clean up the city in their 10 months' drive, groups of zealous young puritan volunteers now declare themselves ready to take over the campaign and bring it to a successful close within three months.

The last celebration of the Quatz' Arts Ball, the annual jamboree of the students in the Latin Quarter, which was more hilarious and shocking than ever before, has been the last straw to break the camel's back, so to speak.

The surprising feature about the Parisian puritans is their extreme youth. The 5000 strong delegation that marched in protest to the Prefect's headquarters was composed of men and women in their teens. They made their appearance just exactly six hours before the Quatz' Arts affair was to go into full swing at the Salle Wagram on the left bank of the Seine.

Nothing could stop the students at this stage of the proceedings, replied the Prefect to their vehement demands that he send 10,000 gen-darmes to stop the "Huns."

That same night Paris rang with the shouts of the "Huns" from one end to the other. Word had gone out this year that the students were to impersonate the Hunnish warriors of old, under the leadership of Attila, "the scourge of God," and cause the good Parisian bourgeoisie to have gooseflesh through the horrors that were to be shown in the streets.

By midnight the left bank was filled with gangs of Huns, their naked bodies loosely draped with wild animal skins, carrying hatch-ets and spears, and carrying on the tunes of the terrace cafes on the Boulevard Montparnasse, the old Dome, the Rotonde, the Coupoles and the Select, had the shock of their lives when they witnessed a most terrifying parade file past their cozy corners in the evening.
The Huns had manufactured some realistic imitations of female bodies from cardboard and were dragging these bodies over the cobblestones or carrying them stuck on halberds. Some of the victims gory stumps where arms and legs should have been.

The usual wild celebrations followed, with thousands of nude nymphs and satyrs bathing in the fountains on the Place de la Concorde at daybreak and the police busily shooting the last stragglers homeward before the business crowd from the suburbs should invade the city for the regular day's routine.

Reports gathered by the moralists during the night showed, it is said, that the students had been more flagrant in their breach of the proprieties than ever before.
Instances of gross misconduct were laid before the Prefect the next day and a formal demand was made that this year's Quatz' Arts Ball will have been the last.

Reformers Active Since St. Louis.
Similar purity drives against the students have been made since the days of St. Louis and Francis.
They have never succeeded beyond the point of evoking a pious promise from the Prefect in office to confine the students and force them to confine their joyous activities to the Latin Quarter.

BIG COPPER MERGER PREDICTED

Group of Large Companies, Valued at $170,000,000, Plan to Join.
By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Wall Street copper interests are talking of a merger of properties in the Southwest, particularly Arizona, forming a concern which would rank among the foremost producers. United Verde Extension Mining Co., Phelps Dodge Corporation, Calumet and Arizona Mining Co., and Magma Copper Co., are mentioned in the proposed alignment. The total market value of the companies is approximately $170,000,- 000. Last year they produced more than 200,000,000 pounds of copper.
While none of the bankers interested would say the merger was assured, it was said considerable progress had been made in the last few months. United Verde has been brought into the plan since its recent negotiations to sell its properties to the Newmont Mining Co. failed.

mediately after hearing a radio account of the tummy-tummy fight, Miss Lillian Gold, 24 years old, a nurse, went to her bedroom and took poison. She was removed to a hospital where physicians say she will recover.

FIRE DESTROYS 500 SQUARE MILES OF GRAIN

3 Farm Homes Also Burn Near Walla Walla, Wash.—Loss More Than $100,000.

By the Associated Press.
WALLA WALLA, Wash., July 27.—Fire that burned 12 hours in the rich wheat lands on Eureka Flats, 30 miles northwest of here, apparently was halted today after having ravaged 500 to 600 square miles of farming country.

S. F. L. Armstrong, adjuster for the Northwestern Mutual Fire Insurance Co., returned here after having been in charge of the fire-fighting. He estimated the loss to wheat would reach $100,000, besides value of farm buildings and pasture lands that were burned. It was the worst fire, he said, in his 30 years' experience in this vicinity. The fire, which started near Walla Walla yesterday, burned on a 35-mile front for 30 miles, and today was burning itself out as it approached the Touchet River. The fire battle line was along the Eureka-Pasco highway, westward from Eureka Junction, Armstrong reported. By keeping the flames from crossing this road, several hundred thousand acres of valuable grain were saved.

Grains warehouses at Adkins Station, filled with this season's wheat, were saved from the flames when plowing and back firing headed the fire around the structures. Thirteen homes were destroyed at Winona by flames sweeping in from the field. The fire there was controlled by volunteers sent by automobiles and special train from Colfax.

Many farmers packed their belongings and after turning their livestock out on plowed ground fled. Several ranchers said they barely escaped with their lives while attempting to save their homes. Two warehouses are known to have been destroyed.

The conflagration was reported to have started along the Northern Pacific tracks near Attalla, and the flames quickly raced up the right-of-way.

Farmers, with hastily-harnessed teams worked through the night turning furrows in an attempt to stop the flames, which jumped over the newly-plowed ground and ate further into the waving grain stubble and pastures.

Sweltering heat, which has held over this district for five days, had hurried the ripening of wheat, and burned brown large grain sections. Several small towns received refugees from the endangered areas.

GERMAN LINER, DAMAGED BY ICE FLOE, AT SPITZBERGEN

Will Return With 1500 Passengers to Hamburg After Undergoing Repairs.

By the Associated Press.
HAMBURG, Germany, July 27.—The German liner Monte Cervantes, carrying 1500 tourists, is expected to sail for Hamburg from Spitzbergen waters tomorrow or Sunday after completing repairs made necessary by a collision with an ice floe Wednesday when a big hole was ripped in its bow. There were no casualties.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, July 27.—Advices from the icebreaker Krassin today said divers had finished repairs to the German steamship Monte Cervantes. The passengers of the tourist ship went aboard the Krassin to thank the members of the crew for their assistance.

Killed by Customs Guard.
HOBOKEN, N. J., July 27.—Leo Boice, Longshoreman, died just before midnight as a result of a bullet wound. He was shot in the left groin Tuesday by James MacGuckin, 26, United States customs guard, on a Government owned pier. MacGuckin was quoted as saying Boice had refused to submit to search on leaving the pier and had thrown two bottles of allegedly smuggled whiskey at him, after which he fired. Police said other witnesses denied Boice had thrown bottles at MacGuckin, but had simply thrown the bottles down in the hope of destroying the evidence.

SAYS WOMAN WHO LURED YOUTH IS GUILTY OF MURDER

Denver Prosecutor Regrets No Law Exists to Punish Wife of Man Who Killed Caruthersville Boy.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
DENVER, Colo., July 27.—The latest sensational shooting in Denver, with an attractive woman at the apex of the triangle and a 19-year-old grocery boy dead at the hands of the woman's husband, has resulted in an equally sensational demand from public officials here that new laws be enacted to force the woman to "pay."

Mrs. Zella Stull Dickson, formerly of Ames, Ia., unusually attractive, starting an "innocent flirtation" according to her own story, with Herbert Hadley Powell of Caruthersville, Mo., who delivered groceries to her palatial bungalow in a fashionable Denver residential district. Her husband, Alpheus E. Dickson, 31, official in a $1,000,000 movie corporation, lavished every luxury upon her, but was so busy making money he was away from home much of the time.

Instead, Dickson returned to his home and found Powell with his wife. In a scuffle that ensued Powell was shot dead. Dickson is charged with first degree murder.

The wife, after being held in jail for two days as a witness, was released—free—resulting in this statement from Chief of Police Reed of the Denver department: "A married woman who forgets her marriage vows and deliberately lures a young man into an illicit relation with herself which may or does result in a slaying should be held equally responsible with the one who pulls the trigger." And Foster Cline, Denver District Attorney, who will prosecute Dickson, asserted:

"There should be a law to prevent vampires from preying upon young men. If there were any kind of statute that would apply to Mrs. Dickson, I would certainly file against her. She is as guilty as the man."

Regrets Woman Was Freed.
Referring to the ancient adage that it is the woman who "pays" and pays, and pays, Chief Reed continued:

"Yet, except for the discomfort of being held in jail for a couple of days as a material witness, and the transient shame resulting from publicity, Mrs. Dickson has walked out of this case a free woman."

"Why shouldn't she be made to pay equally with her husband, who, entering their home, found another man, or, in this case, the boy she had lured there—and shot and killed him?"

"If there is no law under which she may be summoned to trial with Dickson," Reed declared, "one should be enacted by the next Legislature to take care of such cases."

Says She Lured Youth.
District Attorney Cline amplified his denunciation of the "woman in the case" with this statement:

"We cannot prosecute this woman, much as we would like to. It is plain to me that she was the aggressor in this love affair with Powell. She lured the boy into the wayward path. She called him to his death. The woman in the case is just as guilty as Dickson, and yet the law cannot touch her."

Denver welfare workers entered the discussion with one declaring that a new "unwritten law" has been adopted by the modern jazz youth to the effect that if a man cannot hold his wife's whole-hearted love he deserves to lose her.

SCIENTIST'S GRAVE-ROBBERING MANIA LANDS HIM IN JAIL

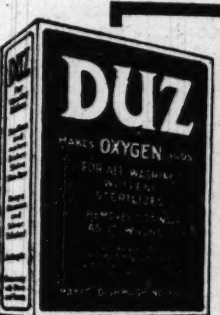

Dr. Lequeux of University of Liege Gets Six Months for Second Offense in Paris.

Copyright, 1928, by the Press and Publishing Co., (The New York World and Post-Dispatch).
PARIS, July 27.—Dr. Lequeux, Belgian scientist, of the University of Liege has been sentenced to prison for six months on his second conviction for grave robbing. The guardians of the Peral Chaise Cemetery surprised him in a tomb searching for valuables and ornaments, but he scrambled out and got away in his automobile. He was recognized, however, and arrested later.

Dr. Lequeux, it was explained in court, developed a craze for collecting things from graves after leading several scientific expeditions in Morocco. He took bronzes, statuettes, vases and other ornaments. Anything that belonged to a dead person seemed to fascinate him, friends said. He is wealthy and never sold the loot, but treasured the articles in his home.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 27.—Proposals of the Pittsburgh, Lisbon & Western Railroad to build a new line connecting Youngstown, O.,

with the Ohio River tentatively were approved today in a report to the Interstate Commerce Commission and the commission was advised to allow the railroad to proceed with its project.

REFEREE STOPS BOUT IN 11TH TO SAVE CHALLENGER FROM FURTHER PUNISHMENT

By John E. Wray.

Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 27.—James Joseph, called Gene, Tunney still world's champion today by virtue of his technical knockout of Tom Heenehy of New Zealand in the eleventh round, won something more than a fight, at the Yankee Stadium last night. He won the right to be enrolled among the greatest of the heavyweights of all time. He also won, or deserved to win, the admiration and popularity that the public has thus far given him grudgingly, or not at all.

Face to face with one of the toughest and ruggedest challengers the game has seen in years, a man dubbed the "Hard Rock" because of his granite jaw and iron ribbed frame, and conceding more than 11 pounds, Tunney showed himself the possessor of everything that leads to pugilistic greatness and also of a humanity and feeling that few fighters with so much at stake have dared to display. He met the rushes of the sturdy Heenehy too to toe.

20 Blows to Heenehy's One. He led 20 times to Heenehy's one. He poured volley after volley of his Heenehy's "big" punches and thundered with mighty rights on the jaw and short ribs of his hapless foe. He scientifically cut Heenehy's face, battered his nose, blooded his left eye and bit by bit attracted Heenehy up to the finish. He pointed and he had him cleanly knocked out, but for the kindly bell in the tenth.

Gene finished the job with a storm of blows to Heenehy's body and head until at length, from the front benches rose the screaming of women and hoarse protests of men to stop it!

Reeling around the ring in the final round, with his bloody face, his feet, but unable to see him, and his breath coming in mighty gasps, Heenehy was a genuine subject for mercy. Tunney looked apologetically at Referee Ed Forbes, who mercifully stepped in and waved Gene the palm of administration the finishing coup to a helpless foe.

Heenehy did not win one round. Tunney Shows Sportsmanship. Tunney won the admiration of these ringers close enough to receive by his knightly conduct in the eighth round.

Heenehy was bleeding from a lacerated nose and from a cut over the eye inflicted in a previous round. Midway in the period it was seen that something had happened to make it worse. The eye was tightly closed and Tom was waving at it as though it stung him. Tunney, instead of taking advantage of his foe in his helpless position, stepped back and refused to press his advantage for several seconds, when Heenehy's eye cleared.

In fact throughout the contest, Tunney's demeanor was considerate and not vicious, although it was plain to all that he held Heenehy almost at his mercy after the first few rounds.

Rickard Loses Around $155,000. Don't get the idea that this affair was not a fight. The public evidently believed it was not going to be one, for the affair might be termed the financial flop of the century, and it left Tex Rickard fairly swimming in red ink, to the extent of something like $155,000, an unofficial information had it. The fans did not think it was going to be a fight. They did not think it was worth so much money, they remained at home and heard about it over the radio, for nothing.

But they reckoned wrong if they thought that Heenehy was not a capable fighter. Heenehy in losing was almost as much admired as he was in winning; and it was after his second had revived him and patched him up, he left the ring, richer by $100,000 than when he entered and battered by almost that number of punches.

Yes, the "Hard Rock" was hard, all right. You could see that when he entered the ring. There was his hairy, swelling torso, topped by that massive jaw and the calm, mastiff-like eyes, both belokening courage and resolution. There were the powerful, upper legs and the thick waist and he looked every inch the Hard Rock they called him; and the crowd rose to their feet and cheered him as he entered the ring and took his seat, five minutes ahead of the champion.

Dempsey Gets Ovation

As usual the champion's arrival at ringside called for only a polite hand-clapping, and some mild vociferation. It must have been a distinct chagrin to Gene, when a moment later, climaxing the introduction of heavyweight "hopes," Jack Dempsey was led to the center of the ring and presented. The din that arose was almost as great as that which follows the announcing of a presidential nominee in convention, only it was voluntary. It was maintained for fully two minutes. In the meantime Tunney sat in his chair unruffled and calm and heard the plaudits that should have been his bestowed on a man whom he had beaten twice.

This Tunney is pretty much of a man as well as a ring champion, lest it escape the observation of some of the misinformed.

But to get back to the Rock. He was restless and eager to go and he figured as the battery of photographers lined him up to be snapped, facing the smiling Tunney, with the referee in the background.

Tom wore a mantle made of feathers, after the fashion of the Maori tribes of New Zealand, and he presented a rather curious spectacle. It even disturbed the composure of Tunney, who stopped to smile and kid Tom about it, and Heeneey grinned back as he explained what it was all about. Then the cameras clicked, the clock was snatched away and the two men were face to face, with the gong sounding.

Tunney Fights as Real Champion. It will be recalled that the writer, in a story last Wednesday, told how Jimmy Bronson had declared that the Rock wasn't so hard and that Tunney would knock him out; that Gene was tired of being termed a "powder puff" champion and was going to prove it by knocking "knock 'em dead." This was a plain bid for some of Dempsey's popularity, but few believed that Tunney would depart from his old style and mix it with Heeneey.

But from the very first moment of the fight it was apparent that Gene was out to knock his man out, carrying out his plan. None of the will-o-the-wisp stuff for Gene. Clean cut and watchful, his expression was as placid as if he was about to give a piano concert or talk on Emerson. He let Heeneey advance within range. No retreat for Tunney. A felt with the left and Heeneey's head bobbed and then over came the Tunney right, squarely on the Heeneey jaw. It advertised to Tom then and there that Tunney was out to finish him.

That was the start of the Tunney bid for popularity. The Rock didn't bid to meditate. He leaned in again, swinging both arms, hooking and cuffing the champion. Then the machine-gun left opened up and forced Heeneey back on his heels. As the indomitable Tom began his tractor-like advance once more, Tunney launched the ace of his repertoire, a straight right hand punch to the body.

It fairly boomed off the enemy's ribs. But this Heeneey was no weakling. As fast as he was knocked back he bore in for more.

Tunney Wards Off Attack. He straightened Tunney up two or three times, but it was plain as the bell rang ending the first round that Heeneey would have to air himself. He was knocked back and he did. Wading in like a caterpillar-tank, he started after Tunney who still refused to run. Gene spelled Heeneey with rights, upset him with his left and then delivered the 42-centimeter shot to the ribs, but Rock refused to crumble. Relentlessly on came Heeneey. Two or three times he broke through Tunney's guard and once he staggered him.

Gene was not so careless in the third round. Heeneey swarmed dangerously at times, and forced Tunney to back away, shooting lefts and rights at Heeneey's nose cut and bleeding but that mattered little to the Rock.

In the fourth round Heeneey shook up Tunney severely and it took considerable coolness and ring craft to get out of the situation without serious punishment. But Tunney weathered the storm, the most serious Heeneey developed in the fight. But then and there he saw fit to alter his intention to a single-whop. It just couldn't be done.

From that point and for several rounds afterwards Tunney went back to first principles. He backed away judiciously, the ever-crowding Heeneey bludgeoned after him. But he made every step that Heeneey took cost him dearly.

Tunney's Two-Handed Attack. Spat, spat, spat went the Tunney left, as the dogged Briton bore in. Rock went the right to the jaw or neck as Heeneey desperately tried to crowd in close. Wham! landed the big artillery to Heeneey's back the moment Heeneey tried to

I Never Met a Gamer Foe, Says Tunney; "Referee Erred in Stopping Us"—Heeneey

By Gene Tunney
World's Champion Heavyweight.
(As Told to a Representative of the Post-Dispatch.)
(Copyright, 1928.)

NEW YORK, July 27.—Tom Heeneey is a tough, game fighter. I have never fought a gamer. I pounded enough rights under his heart to drop an ox and yet he came on for more. He never stops tearing in and takes everything you can hand him. If he could have a fight with me, he would be fighting with a foe's cleverness charged at Tunney swinging both hands, but missed so badly that he slipped to the floor, while Tunney walked away and let him regain his feet unmolested.

Pace Wears Heeneey Down. It was in the seventh round that the pace began to tell. The body punching of Tunney was slowly beating down Heeneey. The champion's left hand, constantly pecking away at Heeneey's eye, finally caused a serious handicap to Tom. They sponged it off and plastered him up between rounds. When he came out for the eighth it was still a fighting Tom Heeneey, but he was a far different man to handle than Dempsey.

In the clinches Tunney held Heeneey helpless with his skill and strength. It is doubtful if Heeneey, even with his extra poundage and his great torso, had any advantage over his debonair foe.

The machine-gun left soon had Heeneey's eye again in distress. As told before Heeneey had his upper and lower eye lids screwed together as if in great pain. It was obvious that he could not see.

At this stage a great uproar arose from Heeneey's corner. "Tunney thumbed Tom in the eye!" somebody shouted; but referee Forbes very promptly shut up the outcry, while Tunney paused in his attack very decently, to give Heeneey a chance to recover his vision.

Heeneey Shows Courage. Still blind Heeneey tore in desperately and flung a lot of gloves. But the Rock was slowly and surely crumbling. He failed, once or twice as he carried the attack. He was knocked back on his heels and every inch of his face filled with Tunney's left glove. The target was now the good right eye, and Tunney was beating him to the floor and half out of the ring, with a volley of blows. Tom was ripe for the count of 10. Two seconds later the bell rang and saved Heeneey from a clean knockout.

Trainer Hennessey and the Harveys dragged Heeneey to his corner, where they worked madly over him. Tom's head was hanging. His eyes had not cleared when the warning whistle sounded the last 15 seconds of the intermission. With his cuts only half patched, Heeneey opened his eyes to the ammonia under his nostrils. He just barely was able to get out of his corner, apparently reluctant to pick on his helpless foe. But again he was treated to the surprise of his life, for the indomitable Heeneey, true to one purpose, turned toward his foe and lunged at him desperately swinging both hands. He landed, too, and Tunney danced away for a moment to look over Heeneey. But the flame died out. Exhausted and beaten tired nature could carry on no more. Obviously with reluctance Tunney advanced to play the role of executioner.

Referee Stops Fight. What Heeneey took in that last round was plenty. We know now

Tunney Receives $266.22 for Every Second He Fought

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Gene Tunney was well paid for the 32 minutes of his fight with Tom Heeneey. He received $266.22 for every second he worked in retaining his heavyweight championship against the onslaught of Tom Heeneey. He drew $266.22 for each second's work. The champion's purse was $225,000 and he occupied 1972 active seconds in making the title safe for another year.

He was rewarded less generously than in his bout with Jack Dempsey when he first defended his title at Chicago, for then he fought a shorter time and got more money. He will show a profit, for he will never spend $266.22 a second.

Heeneey's own fighting style of always coming on in the face of punishment made an ideal situation for my left jab to the face. I closed his left eye and brought him down with a right. He did his best without a backward step, always fighting and ever game to the core, although he knew from the fourth round that I was his master, and he was fighting a hopeless fight. I think now that I have convinced the people of the world that I am a real world's champion. Needless to say it is a great moment in my life and I am happy to be the one to hold the heavyweight title in the U. S. A.

Why they called him "Hard Rock." He just would not break. With the round more half spent Heeneey was just a helpless mass, still on his feet, but with face battered and bleeding from several cuts. He seemed ready to collapse. Even the fans, seldom merciful, begged the referee to stop it, and Tunney pecked at him only eye. My sight was clouded. I could only see Gene through a haze.

My seconds patched it up as well as anyone could during the intervals between rounds. I kept charging as I always do, punching away with both hands. Even with that handicap I thought I was pretty even with Gene.

Toward the end of the tenth round we were slugging away against the ropes. He landed and I landed. It was a bloody good scrap. Then out of nowhere that right came across. I wasn't bothered about defense then. I was set on getting home a few alams myself. It landed straight on the button and down I went. My head cracked against the floor and everything went black. They tell me I rolled under the ropes anyway, and the crack on my head did as much as the punch I guess. I didn't know what it was all about until I was in my corner with Charley and Eddie Harvey slopping water on me I came to right enough, and came out fast at the start of the eleventh. So far as I was concerned the fight wasn't over—not by a jolly sight.

MINNEAPOLIS.—Mike Mandell, St. Paul, defeated Jack Humbeck, Belgium (10), Eganman Ratafali, Minn. N. D. outpointed Joe Gordon, former U.S. champion of Minnesota star (6).

The Fight Blow-by-Blow

By the Associated Press.

ROUND ONE. Grimly determined Tunney whipped a solid right to Heeneey's jaw. The challenger ducked and swarmed into Gene with short left and right hooks to the chin that drove the champion to the ropes. Heeneey shot over a solid right to the head on the break. Sticking to his right hand, Gene crashed two rights on Heeneey's jaw but a sweeping left hook almost bowled the champion from his feet. Tunney was out fast, stabbing now with his left, but Tom beat both hands like a tattoo on Tunney's chin as they swapped in close. Gene ripped a solid right to Heeneey's head but it never moved the challenger and Tunney was on the run as Tom ripped after him, both hands flailing to the head. There was a bad bruise over Tunney's left eye at the end of the round.

ROUND TWO. Tunney, obviously startled at Heeneey's fierce offensive, started boxing the challenger. He shot his left to Heeneey's head but could not keep the New Zealander away. Tunney blasted left and right into the sturdy head of the "Hard Rock" without causing a flicker of Heeneey's eyelashes. Gene swapped with his challenger and they ripped left and right hooks to the chin in a furious exchange. Tunney appeared as Tom ripped in. When Gene's left hook dropped low, Tom mentioned it, and Gene smiled and asked forgiveness. A second later they were crashing each other all along one side of the ring in a slugfest exchange of head clouts that rocked both on their heels. The bell broke up the exchange as the crowd stood and roared its approval.

ROUND THREE. Absolutely unawakened by the power in Tunney's newly-found right, Heeneey plodded into a right-handed exchange with the title holder. Tom dropped his guard and stood before the champion, hands ready and daring another exchange. Gene accommodated him and they cracked lefts and rights, sharp and vicious pokes that stung jaw and cheek. Gene didn't seem to like that and he bounced back on defense, appearing the challenger with a succession of lefts as Tom stalked after him. Tunney slipped as Heeneey swept a right hook to his head and nearly fell, but came back to former footing without having been down and unhurt. Heeneey slugged viciously at the champion's head while Tunney met his attack with solid left hooks to the body.

ROUND FOUR. Rising in sympathy with Heeneey's unexpectedly determined onslaught, the crowd followed the invader on as he whipped a short left and right into Gene's chin. Tunney bounced two rights off Tom's flinty chin and shot the challenger's head back with a stinging left hook. Gaining the upper hand decisively for the first time in the fight, Gene threw a right into Heeneey's head with every ounce of his weight and strength behind it. This time, Tunney's eyelids actually fluttered and he blinked a moment. He threw two crushing rights to the heart. Sensing the turn, with blood beginning to drip from a cut under his chin, Heeneey tore savagely into the champion and nipped him to the ropes with a rocking volley to the head. Back to the heap, in the same position as when Dempsey floored him last fall, Tunney fought valiantly to stay out of danger but he was nipped repeatedly on the head. The bell broke up the challenger's onslaught.

ROUND FIVE. Tunney smashed his right full under Heeneey's heart but the Anzac seemed to like it and bounded in close to slug at the champion's body. Gene drilled a left and right into Tom's rugged head and blood dribbled from the challenger's nose. Boxing cagily again on the defense, his natural style, Gene prodded the Anzac with jabs to the head and body as Heeneey, trying to get my vision back, Tunney hesitated for a moment and then rushed in. The blood kept dripping into my only eye. My sight was clouded. I could only see Gene through a haze.

ROUND SEVEN. Freshened by half a bucket of water poured over his head and a new hair comb, Tunney came out to hold the challenger helpless. Heeneey's left eye swelled and near-

ROUND EIGHT. Tunney, for the first time in the fight, showed New Zealand half a decent shorter, Tunney was content to maul with the challenger killing the effectiveness of Tom's left hook by burying his right hand against his cheek. They tell me I danced about, appearing Tom with his left, the Anzac missed frequently by his short arms going by Tunney's head. Tom caught the champion again near the ropes, Tunney's vital spot, and slashed a left and right to Heeneey's head. Gene wobbled a bit and tore out of the precarious position so fast that he landed in the center of the ring, before Tom could get away from the ropes. Gene was boxing him easily, appearing him dully with lefts.

ROUND NINE. After two minutes and 30 seconds of the round, the referee stopped the fight and declared Tunney the winner by a technical knockout.

Tunney, for First Time, Tasting Joys Of Newspaper Praise

NEW YORK, July 27.—Happier than at any other moment of his pugilistic career, Gene Tunney, for the first time in his life, is tasting the joys of unalloyed newspaper praise. Throughout his career Tunney has been minimized as a fighter and only qualifiedly referred to as "champion."

Today, however, practically without exception, the writers of New York, in articles setting forth his merits, admit that Gene fought the greatest fight of his career and proved himself not only a master boxer, but one who did not have to resort to "safety-first" stuff to win his fight.

Gene's bid for popularity in his announcement that he would stop Heeneey and his success in achieving his prediction, apparently has attained its goal—popularity.

Following are excerpts from the stories of the fight by the leading critics of New York:

Wilbur Wood, New York Sun.—"Gene Tunney's eleventh-round victory over Tom Heeneey was the result of brilliant ring generalship and master marksmanship. The champion's mental and physical machinery functioned smoothly. To tell the whole truth, he looked a better fighter than ever before."

Granland Rice, Tribune.—"Gene Tunney is still heavyweight champion by as wide a margin as the gap between New York and Melbourne, Australia. Heeneey never had a chance. He was up against a better boxer, a harder hitter, a faster workman and a smarter fighter."

W. O. McGeehan, Herald-Tribune.—"Condition and coolness won the championship for Tunney. These qualities held the title for him again last night, as they did at Chicago, and as they will hold for him again tonight as he goes to risk it. But if you ever see the champion in the prize ring again as champion or as one of those ex-champions who crave to be introduced, I miss my guess."

Jack Keenan, Evening Post.—"Gene Tunney fought one of the finest battles of his career. After the second round there was no conceivable doubt that he would win. He boxed superbly and hit with accuracy and power. Tunney displayed marvelous generalship and kept Tom missing throughout."

Lester Bromberg, Evening Post.—"Gene Tunney of the world of light and middleweight boxing, the mob, when Joe Humphries proclaimed him victor over Heeneey."

ly closed when something irritated him. Tom shook his head in desperation as he could hardly see from that eye. Finally he closed it off his own accord before both Tunney and the crowd could see him. Quick to see his advantage Gene held the challenger a moment, looked over his difficulty and then pumped lefts and rights to Tom's head and body. Tunney wobbled Heeneey with blows but blood spurted from his nose as he lashed forward in an desperate effort. Tunney met his attack. Tunney joined Heeneey steadily despite his courageous onslaught right up to the bell.

ROUND NINE. Hardly able to see from his left eye, despite the ministrations, Heeneey gallantly plied into the champion. It seemed days from the lights had gotten onto Tunney's gloves and into the challenger's eyes. Tunney, a sportsman himself, stood and eluded with the challenger, but Tom got the worst of that, too. As Tunney's knifing lefts drummed on the Anzac's head, blood began to ooze from Heeneey's nose and he was bleeding from the mouth. Heeneey again summoned his strength for another surge and ripped his right and left to the champion's head.

ROUND TEN. Heeneey's eye looked almost normal as he came out doggedly to battle the unmurdered champion. Gene grabbed him by the neck and lunged forward and saw a heavy right in the body. The snap seemed to have disappeared from Heeneey's punches and Tunney apparently had little desire to cut up the challenger further. Heeneey grabbed Heeneey as the Anzac plunged in close and showered him with left hooks to the head and body. Tom reeled under full left and right and clouts to the head. Flooding forward now by instinct, Heeneey ran into a barrage and went down under a right to the head. As Heeneey rolled unconscious almost to the ring, the bell rang and ended the session. Heeneey was out, flat on his back and had to be carried to his corner. His seconds had him restored for the next round.

ROUND ELEVEN. Tom came out with a left that missed and Tunney measured him for a final blow. Showing amazing recuperative powers, his head afloat in blood, Tom plunged again into the champion, smashed with a right to the head. A right to the heart sent Tom reeling again. Tom could barely stagger in the close places. His back to the ropes, Tunney staggered forward, half hiding, stabbed him easily with a left and let him get away. Gene flared Tom about the head on the ropes and Tom reeled under the punishment. The challenger was helpless.

After two minutes and 30 seconds of the round, the referee stopped the fight and declared Tunney the winner by a technical knockout.

CAMPANIN COMES FROM BEHIND TO BEAT WEST MOUNT BY THREE LENGTHS

By the Associated Press.
EMPIRE CITY, N. Y., July 27.—J. J. Moran's Campanini, showing improvement of his field in recent races, made a show of his field in a fourth race, which featured a very poor card at Empire City today. Campanini was heavily played at 1 to 1. Westmount was second and Briar Broom third.

Westmount with his early speed, rushed into the lead, but in the stretch Campanini came along, took the lead and won by three lengths. Westmount was second by a head.

complete my eliminations and probably a man more colorful than Heeneey would have been Gene's opponent.

Heeneey Proved His Claim. "However, Tom Heeneey proved his right to the bout by doing just a little better than good fellows of the field, including such good fellows as Jack Sharkey, Paulino, Johnny Ritko and Knute Hanson, but apparently the public did not come out in force for Heeneey. They seemed to fear he was a weakling, which he looked before and after every fight fan demands in a new idol."

Jim Corbett, Journal.—"Gene Tunney proved his greatness as a champion. He met as game a fighter as I ever saw and he knocked him out in a flares and savage battle."

Harry Grayson, Telegram.—"Tunney, a truly great champion, turned in a masterful exhibition of boxing."

Herward Rickatson, East, correspondent for Reuters Agency, London.—"No fire-breathing Anzac bull ever put up a game fight than Heeneey, and no mauler could have wielded a sharper sword than Gene Tunney."

Joe Williams, Telegram.—"Gene Tunney again proved himself a pretty fair sort of champion. He beat Heeneey from here to Peking, China, and back again."

And on fourth at libitum. All of which ought to be him in blood to Tunney, who in the past has been denied due deed of praise.

Lermond, 5000 Meters Star, Latest Casualty Of U. S. at Amsterdam

By Alan J. Gould

Associated Press Sports Editor.

AMSTERDAM, Holland, July 27.

—In spite of training difficulties which forced the team to seek a half dozen different practice grounds in and outside Amsterdam,

America approaches the Olympic track and field championships, starting Sunday, with prospects of a sweeping triumph undiminished.

Though there have been some slight casualties and minor all-ments among the Yankees they have not experienced the hard luck that has beset other teams including the Germans and the Austrians. Unless the injury jinx reaches out now, an unlikely occurrence in view of the fact that most of the hard work has been completed, the United States will enter the competition probably in as good if not better condition than most of their rivals although the Finns,

the Britons, the French and the Germans were not handicapped by the necessity of making a long sea trip to Amsterdam.

Germans Hard Hit.

The Germans, however, were harder hit by casualties, including

Dr. Wichmann, crack sprinter and member of the record-breaking

German 400-meter relay team.

Wichmann pulled a tendon in yesterday's workout. Dr. Otto Peltzer's condition also is uncertain. He has not fully recovered from an ankle injury but is entered in the 800-meter trials on Sunday.

The Australians lost two track stars through injuries.

There had been some fears in the American camp that Frank

Wickoff, sensational young Californian, would suffer ill effects from a slightly pulled tendon but the form he has shown in the past few days has dispelled this anxiety at least in the coaches' minds.

"Flying Frank," as a result, still rules the American 100 meters favorite. Henry Russell, former

Cornell flash, and Bob McAllister,

New York's "flying cop," also are reckoned as strong contenders. The other American entrant, Claude

Brace, of Rice Institute, Texas, has not been running in his best form. The Texan's legs have developed some soreness and he has not worked out as much as the others.

Lermond a Casualty.

All four American sprinters have prospects of fairly easy time of it in the opening trials on Sunday.

Eighty-seven competitors have been drawn in sixteen heats, the first two in each heat qualifying for the second trials later on the same afternoon.

The cosmopolitan group of rivals includes such stars as R.

Corta and Hubert Houben of Germany, Porritt of New Zealand,

George Hester of Canada, W. B.

Lees of South Africa and Pepe

Barrientos of Cuba.

Leo Lermond is the latest American casualty. He is suffering from stomach trouble but he has plenty of time to recover since

CHRYSLER SAYS DEAL WITH DODGE MAY FAIL

Deposits of Stock in Second Company Must Be Made by Tomorrow Noon.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Walter P. Chrysler, president of the Chrysler corporation, said today the entire plane under which his company has proposed to acquire Dodge Brothers would fall unless there were substantial additional deposits of Dodge stock.

Deposits must be made by tomorrow noon, and total deposits today were understood to be about $5,000 shares of preference and 77,500 shares of class "A" stock short of the minimum of 90 per cent of the total outstanding in each class which Chrysler has said must be deposited before his corporation will proceed with the plan.

Chrysler's statement was subsequent to a meeting of his directors which was explained as for the purpose of taking action "with regard to certain formalities incidental to the progress of the plan." Dodge stockholders meet tomorrow to consider the proposition.

With only one day remaining to bring in the necessary shares, several of the bankers backing the plan regarded the prospects of success as exceedingly doubtful. They pointed out that there are 25,000 holders of Dodge stock, scattered throughout the United States, Canada and Europe. The undeclared shares were said to be held largely by small holders. It was estimated that 24 out of every 25 stockholders must be reached.

MEXICAN FACTIONS OPPOSING CALLES OVER PRESIDENCY

MORONES IN FLIGHT TO CUBAN REFUGE

Soto y Gama Charges President's Religious Policy Is Due to "Rabid Antipathy Toward Clericals."

MEXICO CITY, July 27.—A struggle to the finish for political control of Mexico got off to a flying verbal start yesterday. Two wings of the Obregon faction issued conflicting declarations.

The day's fight was that Lu. Morones, dismissed Minister of Industry, Commerce and Labor, who is widely accused of instigating the assassination of Gen. Obregon, is on the Gulf of Mexico on his way to Cuba.

He left Monday night in an automobile, catching a train later to Vera Cruz, whence he sailed yesterday. He tendered his resignation late last week and President Calles accepted it Tuesday night. His life had been threatened.

Gov. Aaron Saenz of the State of Nuevo Leon, spoken of widely as provisional president to succeed President Calles, Dec. 1, pleaded yesterday for co-operation with President Calles. The right wing Obregon followers are supporting Gov. Saenz.

Deputy Antonio Diaz Soto y Gama, leader of the Agrarian party, demanded that Gilbert Valenzuela, Mexican Minister to the Court of St. James, London, be the next President.

Calles Favors Tejedo.

It became known that President Calles favored Adelberto J. Tejedo, former Minister of the Interior and Governor of the State of Vera Cruz. Little effort was made to hide apprehensions that out of the heated difference of opinion among the Obregon and Calles followers might develop another period of disorder in Mexico.

Soto y Gama, a leading member of the Chamber of Deputies, said the situation was grave. The right wing of the Obregon party is punyfooting, the leaders saying one thing for publication and quite a different thing confidentially. Despite all the talking done to make the situation seem bright, the leaders frothed among themselves with predictions of trouble.

Friends of Obregon are bitterly opposed to making Tejedo provisional President. They denounced him as an anti-Obregon follower and an irresponsible radical. Leaders of the Agrarian wing laughed scornfully at men of his class and said he was an impossibility.

The right wing of the Obregon party continued to support the candidacy of Gov. Aaron Saenz. They said his candidacy was conciliatory in character, and that he was the outstanding leader of their cause, now that Gen. Obregon is dead.

Loyal Follower of Obregon.

The left wing of the Agrarians characterized Valenzuela as a loyal follower of the assassinated leader, an administrator of experience, and a statesman in his outlook on the fundamental problems of Mexico. He was Minister of the Interior under Obregon.

Soto y Gama said there would not be peace in Mexico unless President Calles came to terms with the Obregon party. He spoke, surrounded by humble followers in the Agrarian headquarters.

These followers murmured approval when Soto y Gama charged that President Calles' religious policy was inspired by "rabid antipathy toward clericals," and was persisted in because of the President's "self love and desire to gratify his egotism."

"Is there anybody in Mexico," he asked, "who gives the slightest credence to his charges that the clergy is the intellectual author of the assassination of Gen. Obregon? Go out in the street and ask the first citizen you meet if he believes he would have settled the religious conflict equitably, and the church leaders knew it."

Obregon, a Diplomat.

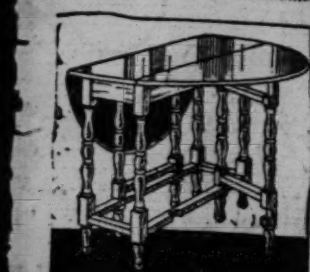

"For that reason the Vatican refused to negotiate with President Calles. It preferred to wait for Gen. Obregon to come into power. Gen. Obregon was diplomatic and had tact. His common sense told him the conflict with the church was unnecessary and was doing Mexico infinite harm."

"The people do not need to wait for an investigation to know who the guilty parties were. The labor

No Full Dinner Pail Since 1923 For Textile Workers At Former Citadel of Tariff

Lawrence (Mass.) Manufacturers Lay Troubles to Wool Duty—Less Than $20 a Week for 1,000,000 Workers in 1927.

By BASIL MANLY.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1928.)

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 27.—Here we are in the nation's greatest woolen goods center, once the citadel of the high protective tariff, which has been captured and laid low by General Depression.

"Business is rotten in Lawrence," the local merchants all say. "Some of the mills are bankrupt. Others are operating only part time. How can business be good, when the people are getting only enough work and wages to keep them alive?"

"How long has it been since the woolen mill workers' dinner pails were full?" I ask these merchants. "Not since 1923," they answer. "That was a good year. The manufacturers had the new Fordney-McCumber tariff and thought they were going to make big money. But something went wrong and there has been no good business since, except maybe for a month or two."

Down at the end of the main street of Lawrence, in the very heart of the city, stands the great Everett mill. It is a colossal structure—four stories high and covering four city blocks. A few years ago its stock sold for $300 a share. Today you could buy it for $20. Not a wheel has turned for nearly a year, and repeated attempts have been made without success to sell or lease the buildings.

The United States Worsted Co., once the powerful "worsted trust"—today bankrupt and its plants could be bought for song. The American Woolen Co.—the "woolen trust"—is operating part time on uncertain orders.

It is surprising that, with these conditions in the very "citadel of protection," ordinary folks in New England should have dropped the high protective tariff from their creed.

Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican National Committee, or any of his high-powered orators is planning to visit Lawrence or any other textile center and preach the glories of the Fordney-McCumber tariff and the full dinner pail. He could be wise to wear armor on the platform. And some of the manufacturers, as well as the labor leaders, charge the Fordney-McCumber tariff with direct responsibility for the existing bad condition of the industry.

"The main cause of the depression," the carded Wool Manufacturers' Association of Boston declares, "is the restriction of consumption by reason of the high tariff on raw wool."

"The duty on raw wool actually collected under the present Fordney tariff," these woolen manufacturers say, "represents an increase of 62 1/2 per cent above the Payne-Aldrich 'Schedule K,' which President Taft denounced and the country repudiated as indefensible.

"This flat duty of 31 cents a pound on all grades of wool rests lightly enough on the expensive wools, but is a crushing burden, ranging as high as 200 per cent on the cheaper grades out of which ordinary clothing for men and women would normally be made. It is as unjust as taxing all land at so much an acre."

"Deprived of this lower priced wool by the tariff and by the failure of American wool growers to supply the deficiency, American manufacturers are forced to substitute cotton and shoddy for the needed wool, if they are to supply cheap clothing. This has injured the market."

"We believe that the wool grower is entitled to adequate protection, but the duty should be scientifically adjusted to rest fairly upon all grades of raw material and finished goods instead of continuing as an intolerable and destructive burden the poorest classes."

Workmen's Side of the Case.

With equal force Thomas P. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers, puts the case for the workmen:

"I believe in a fair protective tariff for industry in America, but I do not believe that an industry should be so highly protected that the few who control reap all the harvest, while the tens of millions of American citizens pay the price. Such a policy leads to restriction of consumption and eventually causes its own defeat."

He is talking in talking about the tariff and the full dinner pail, when in 1927 the wages of 1,000,000 workers in the highly protected textile industries averaged less than $20 a week."

Outside the textile industry also, New Englanders have ceased to worship the tariff.

"Even the sacred tariff is no longer in the interest of New England," says F. J. Stimson, one of the old-line Bostonians. "What we want is free raw materials, trade with South America."

Boston is beginning to realize that instead of being the "hub of the universe," she is out on the rim of the world. She has been reaching the big home market in the interior, in competition with other cities.

New England as a whole is learning by bitter experience that she cannot simply sit down behind the tariff wall and wait for the plums to drop. That is why the Republican pipers must learn some new tunes this year if they are to lure out the Yankee votes.

New England has been bunked by five years of hard times and is beginning to turn over a new leaf on which prosperity may be written.

Public opinion demands unmistakably that labor leaders be eliminated from every branch of government. This elimination is an unalterable condition for our support of the Government. Tejedo for Provisional President is unthinkable. We favor Gilberto Valenzuela.

Saenz Renamed Party Director.

Saenz has been renamed director of the Obregon party. The decision was reached, according to Soto y Gama, with consultation with leaders of the Agrarian wing of the party.

Tejedo, President Calles' entry into the provisional presidential race, has had a prominent part in the church and state conflict. Through his Ministry of the Interior was issued the famous order of the Government, dated July 2, 1926, which provided that all priests should register with the municipal authorities. This precipitated the decision of the hierarchy to suspend church services in Mexico.

Tejedo resigned from the Ministry of the Interior early in the year to run for Governor of Vera Cruz. He previously had served a term there. Valenzuela resigned the Ministry of the Interior under Obregon to accept the present position at the Court of St. James.

Saenz was Foreign Minister under President Obregon and Calles, and previously was an accredited envoy to the governments of Argentina and Brazil. He was a General in the revolution and fought under Gen. Obregon.

MOSES HAS NO ILLUSION OF BREAKING SOLID SOUTH

Thinks, However, Republicans Have Chance in Ten Congressional Districts There.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Senator George C. Moses, vice-chairman of the Eastern Republican Advisory Committee, is opposed to an invasion of the Solid South to get votes for Herbert Hoover, because he thinks it would be useless.

"I have no great illusion of our ability to break up the solid South, much as I would desire to see it done," Moses said.

The Senator said his advice to the Republicans was to concentrate on the congressional campaign in certain sections of the South.

"Then if we find ground for optimism we may expand and go after bigger game."

Commenting on the enrollment of former Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma in the Hoover ranks Moses said that the Oklahoma's defection to the Republican party might have been due to the persuasive powers of his wife.

The ten Congressional districts in the South where Senator Moses sees hope of Republican success are in Florida, Georgia, North Carolina and Alabama.

TREATY FOR NEW TARIFF PLAN SIGNED BY U. S. AND CHINA

Pact Annuls Existing Agreements and Provides Autonomy for Nationalists.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—A treaty annulling existing tariff treaties between United States and China, and substituting complete tariff autonomy for China was signed by Pekin Wednesday by American Minister MacMurray and Chinese Minister Ma Tzu-wei.

T. V. Soong, Minister of Finance of the Chinese Nationalist Government, the State Department announced today.

The likin tax, now in effect also as a surcharge under the terms of the treaty. The provisions of the treaty become effective Jan. 1, 1929, if ratifications are exchanged by that date, or four months subsequent to exchange after that date.

TOKIO, July 27.—Vernacular newspapers commenting on the American Minister MacMurray's arrival here, are unanimous in pointing out that it is America's intention to forestall the other Powers. Asahi says America intends to become the leading Power in China and that this disparity is placing Japan in a very difficult position.

The flood in the Zeya River basin, amounting to a flood, is running high, flooding villages, homes and barns are floating down stream.

FRANCE SUGGESTS AUG. 27 FOR SIGNING KELLOGG PACT

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Secretary of State Kellogg has received the invitation to visit Paris Aug. 27 or 28 for the signing of the anti-war treaty resulting from Franco-American conversation.

He will attend if the other signatory Powers also are to be represented in Paris by their Foreign Ministers.

Kellogg probably will be accompanied by Mrs. Kellogg, but he has already decided to return immediately by the first steamer available after the treaty has been signed.

Kellogg does not plan or expect to take advantage of his projected European trip to enter into informal conversations with the various Foreign Ministers in Paris on matters relating to this country.

NEW YORK, July 27.—John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee and member of the Republican League Club of Philadelphia, became a member of the National Democratic Club of New York yesterday.

He was proposed for membership by George J. Atwell, president of the club, a week ago. Recently Raskob offered to resign from the Philadelphia Union League, if his membership embarrassed that organization.

John Hodgson and Albert von Hotegen Have Attractive Entries.

A lover of horses and flowers is John Hodgson. As foreman of the American Railway Express establishment, he prides himself in the ribbon and cups won by the company's horses which he has groomed for the annual horse shows. The garden he has made in the yard of his home at 5102 Eichelberger avenue is a beauty spot, being considered for a prize in the Best Garden Contest conducted by the St. Louis Horticultural Society.

A hardy privet hedge into which blue ash trees are set at intervals surrounds the small plot of ground, only 40 by 120 feet, and inside are flowers and bushes in profusion. A large catalpa tree stands out in the front yard among the cedar and other bushes. Sponge rock, strangely white and neat appearing, forms the border of a flower bed which surrounds the inside of the plot.

Here grow pansies of every color, geraniums, cast paws, which look like pale violets but feel like white. The flowers, which have already bloomed, roses, ferns, asters and a dozen other varieties.

Has Fountain and Fish Pool.

A formal touch is added by a star-shaped fountain and fish pool in the back yard, also made of sponge rock taken from the Ozark Mountains on one of Hodgson's several trips there. The same stone is used to form arches over the front and side entrances to the garden. There are several flower basins mounted on pedestals, moldings of concrete by Hodgson himself, a stone garden bench and many hanging rustic boxes.

Hodgson's garden is the realization of five years of spare-time labor. Five years ago, when he bought the bungalow, a few blades of grass were its only adornment.

Another garden which attracted favorable attention of the judges in the contest is that of Albert von Hotegen, 7140 Colorado avenue, who has gone in for practical gardening more than for the beauty of the formal garden. He is a steep slope leading down to a railroad track and the grade would have discouraged most gardeners. By hauling dirt up the hill by hand, he was able to terrace the ground and plant his garden.

His plot is 64 by 114 feet, and the vertical dimension, which he has imagined, would about equal the shorter side. A chicken yard and the bungalow in which he lives with his mother cut further into the garden space. Van Hotegen works at night and cultivates the garden during the day.

Five Bushels of Potatoes.

He has harvested one crop of potatoes, five bushels, and planted another. The tomatoes already have yielded three bushels, with the end not at hand. Quantities of lettuce, cabbage, radishes, onions and beans have been gathered, more than enough to provide for him and his mother. Corn, pumpkins, sweet potatoes, grapes and elderberries have not yet been harvested.

Flowers have not been neglected. Moss blossoms, a hardy variegated plant, grow in profusion among the vegetables in the storm.

CHINESE CHIEF IN MANCHURIA SOLICITS AID FROM JAPAN

Informed by Premier Mikado's Only Concern Is to Prevent "Bolshevization."

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, July 27.—A representative of Chang Hsueh-Liang, Governor of Manchuria, is understood to have handed him a personal letter in which Chang solicited Japan's friendly assistance.

It was learned authoritatively that the Premier replied with the assurance that Japan has no territorial ambitions in Manchuria and no intention of interfering with the sovereignty of the three Northern provinces, emphasizing that Japan's only fear was the "bolshevization" of Manchuria, resulting in the disturbance of peace and order.

REGINA, Sask., July 27.—The death of at least 30 Indians has resulted from what was described as an influenza epidemic over an area from the Mackenzie delta to waterways in Northern Alberta, according to Sgt. O. V. Matthews, who arrived yesterday from Fort Smith.

While only one white man has been reported ill, the death toll among Indians has been especially severe, he said. Thirty deaths in the Fourth Resolution district had been reported and Sgt. Matthews estimated that more than 75 per cent of the Indians at Simpson

MAJORITY OF CITY COMMITTEE SILENT

Many, However, Lean to Rowe in Democratic Race and Some Are Openly for Him.

With the primaries less than two weeks away, the campaigns of the various candidates for Circuit Attorney are in full stride in what will probably be the hardest fight, and the most important, to be decided by the voters at the polls on Aug. 7.

The two candidates about whom the strongest independent vote is expected to center, former Circuit Court Judge Franklin Miller on the Democratic ticket and Arthur J. Freund on the Republican, are making dignified and vigorous campaigns, designed not only to ally to themselves the independent voters but also to bring in the organization support that is wavering.

Judge Miller, who filed for office at the request of leaders in business and the legal profession, has been speaking nightly at ward meetings, but so far has been unsuccessful, apparently, in eliciting from the majority of the committee a definite statement on their position.

Five of them have announced definitely that they are backing Miller's opponent, Tom Rowe Jr., and one, L. C. Kingsland of the Twenty-eighth Ward, has come out for Miller. Two members of the committee have announced that they are for the third contender, Joseph F. Diekmann, one of those being Diekmann himself, committee man from the Fourteenth Ward, Committee Noncommittal.

The rest of the committee are noncommittal. It is understood that many of them, if not all, lean to Rowe, but are unwilling to come out for him because of the possibility that Miller may be nominated.

Miller himself, by virtue of his independent record on the bench, and his unwillingness to grant favors merely for political favors, has not won great popularity in the ranks of politicians who would rather have a "manageable" Circuit Attorney than one who is likely to pursue his duties without regard to political considerations.

In his election to the Circuit bench eight years ago, Judge Miller polled a phenomenal strong vote for a Democrat, and his independent following, his supporters, has been augmented since then by his fine record in six years on the bench.

Much of his campaign, therefore, is directed to the independent voters, and since these cannot be reached at meetings, an intensive mail campaign is being carried on.

Such organizations as the Safety Council, Associated Industries and League of Women Voters are thoroughly circumscribed with Miller campaign material. Miller literature is also being given out in two organizations of chain grocery stores in the hope of rallying the housewife vote to his banner.

Over Campaign Manager.

Judge Miller's campaign is entirely under his own direction. His committee includes lawyers and business leaders, but it is understood that beyond recommending his candidacy to their friends they are not actively campaigning. They are not, for the most part, professionally engaged in politics.

Rowe's campaign is proceeding more closely along the lines of the orthodox political drive with some ward organizations openly active in his behalf and other supposed to be working covertly for him. Rowe has been speaking nightly and his workers have been carrying on a mail campaign.

After he had announced as a candidate, Rowe was accused by certain political workers of being a stalking horse, entered in the race by the organization of Circuit Attorney Siders, Republican incumbent, to defeat the formidable Miller candidacy.

Geist Advises Rowe.

This impression was heightened by the discovery that William Geist, who had successfully managed the Siders campaign four years ago, was advising Rowe on his drive for the nomination. Geist and Siders had parted in apparent anger some weeks before after what seemed to be a bitter quarrel.

Now, however, it is generally understood in political circles that the fight between Siders and Geist was a genuine one, and that Geist is anxious to defeat Siders, even to the point of helping a Democratic candidate into office.

A Mean Goose-Quill STUPID NINETEENTH CENTURY. By Leon Daudet.
(Payson & Clarke.)

LEON DAUDET, son of the late Alphonse, who wrote "Sapho" and "The Immortal," is said to be one of the few uncompromising reactionaries left in Europe. His volume here is a return to the monastic principle and authoritative religion under the far, and as he believes, the manner side of the French Revolution. In his view, the nineteenth century chronologially overlapped the twentieth and ended with the outbreak of the world war, that catastrophe being the inevitable result of a century of unmitigated folly. That folly he undertakes to point out and analyze, showing in what errors of thought it originated and what its logical social effects have been.

Undoubtedly there was plenty of folly in the nineteenth century, and few will deny that Daudet has hit upon much of it, or that his analysis thereof is illuminating. But as for the desire to return, there is no returning ever; and no doubt if we were wiser even the most bitter nonconformist of the past would thank heaven that the past is past, especially since the best of it remains to those who care to have it. There is nothing authentic history to convince us that fundamental human problems were ever satisfactorily solved, and each age seems to have been liberally gifted with the power to achieve its own peculiar style of folly along with better things. Perhaps a brief return to any age would convince even Daudet that there is nothing for it but to strive to understand the ills that plague us now, and there is reason for suspecting that what he gets from Daudet, as from all other nonconformists, is merely the inevitable reaction of a certain type of analytical mind to perennial human error. Would not Daudet in any century have been an uncompromising critic of the contemporary scene? And may not such minds be very precious to this world, however uncomfortable they may make us?

One may be impressed by a physician's diagnosis, etiology and prognosis of a disease while feeling justified in rejecting his prescription for it. Many will accept in general Daudet's rather masterly analysis of nineteenth century tendencies and his explanation of their origin and results, while rejecting his conclusions as to what we ought to do about it.

Briefly stated, Daudet's thesis is concerned with nineteenth century romanticism, originating, as he sees it, with the triumph of individualism in the French Revolution and masquerading in as many forms as there are fields of human endeavor. To this all-pervading romantic tendency, which he identifies with the anarchic mood, he traces in a striking manner all the outstanding social ills as well as what he believes to be the literary, philosophical, moral and scientific aberrations of our time.

It is a powerful argument, whether one likes it or not, and must be granted that Daudet flourishes a mean goose-quill that very often bites deep.

FIRST WORLD STATE IN DAY OF CONFUCIUS

Dr. Chen Huan Chang Tells of Peace Conference 2476 Years Ago.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, July 27.—The story of China as the first great world state interested in disarmament and of Confucius, Chinese sage, as the first great statesman to advocate the cause of world peace was told recently by Dr. Chen Huan Chang, Peking philosopher, at a luncheon given in his honor at the Yale Club by the World Peace Union. Dr. Chen is on his way to Geneva to represent the Confucian movement at the Universal Religious Peace Conference to be held there shortly. He is the leader of that movement in his own country.

In the sixth year (546 B. C.) of Confucius, Dr. Chen told his audience, "China held an international conference for disarmament. It was the largest organization working successfully for world peace in the earliest history of mankind. The conference consisted of 10 leading nations. The result of the gathering banished all war for eight years."

Sung Nation Calls Meeting.
"At that time China and Ch'u were the two strongest Nations of all. Each led an alliance. Between these two hostile Nations, China of the north and Ch'u of the south, was the Nation of Sung. In consequence the Nation of Sung became the natural peacemaker, for taking advantage of its location, it initiated the movement and invited all the Nations to attend the conference of disarmament that was held in the Sung capital."

In the 31st year of Confucius (221 B. C.) China began to realize the Confucian principles to abolish all the States and unite them into one Chinese world under one government. "This was the first world state that ever appeared in human history. Before the western countries came into contact with China, it had enjoyed a life of a world state and had developed the ideals of universalism instead of nationalism."

"You can see the vital difference between China and the European countries in history. China did succeed in uniting the Chinese world under one government for more than 2000 years. When you come to the history of the European countries, you will find that they have utterly failed to make one world state in many attempts."

Defines Confucian Creed.
In speaking of Confucius, Dr. Chen defined his great principles thus: "Heaven is the Lord of the universe and loves all creatures. 'Universal love of mankind, irrespective of racial differences. 'The distinction between the civilized countries and barbarian states is not on the basis of racial differences nor of geographical situation but on the basis of possessing property and justice. 'Reciprocity is the fundamental principle for international relations. That is what you do not want done to yourself, do not do to others. 'Truthfulness is the real binding force of international relations. Without truthfulness the world will go asunder."

"All war cannot be justified because all nations standing on equal footing have no right to make wars against each other; although in some cases there might be one war better than the other in comparison. 'There are divisions of territories, but not people, as all the people in the world are in one family. 'The whole world is a great unity, disregarding national strength and geographical advantages of locations."

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 27.

THOUGHTS while strolling: That stretch of 5th Avenue sidewalk sprinkled with diamond dust. The bus driver who looks like Fontaine Fox. Otto Kahn, a Mannheim, Germany, boy, who made good in the city. Constance Collier with a griffin. The Metropolitan Club. It looks grand in "Who's Who."

More modernistic whatnots in Saks windows. A priest comforting a distressed woman on the sidewalk at St. Patrick's. George Creel, the "Uncle Henry" of Colliers. And husband of Blanche Bates. The legless beggar who the Boston dog that pulls him along in a cart.

Joe Humphries, the leather lunged fight announcer. Those new hotels blazing with light at night but practically empty. Women's heels are getting lower. There's a Gay Ninety touch—a bicycle rack. Boys with flowing ties who play piccolos in orchestras.

Bon voyage fruit baskets $50. On the East Side you can open a fruit store for that. Those doll cycle riders. Boys with flowing ties who play piccolos in orchestras.

Nothing so intimidating as a wild-eyed motorcyclist. A boy and girl next to a hotel. That's nice. Every trunk store seems to be "selling out." The town is full of green shirts. Why do men with big feet wear small derbies pulled down to their ears?

And why are bow-legged men always running after street cars? Crooked stocking seams. Walt Roesner, the Capitol orchestra leader. A man pushing a baby carriage. Just like they do in Brooklyn. Strike up the band—a taxi driver just told a fare he had plenty of change. Harry Reichenbach, the silver-haired press agent.

A street hawk selling colored clothes line. The Brighter Back Yard movement arrives. Wonder what Columbus Circle used to look like. The sombre dignity surrounding every church—even those on Broadway. Who remembers when a telegram was a dispatch?

BROADWAY'S so-called motto do not always flutter back to the searing flame. One of the well-known professional dancers was for years found where chandeliers blazed brightest. She was a toast of the town. About five years ago she married a rich young manufacturer in a small Middle West city. Broadway always expected her back. She does return now and then with her husband, makes the rounds of the night bazaars, looks on, but seems bored, and departs early. Those who know say she is supremely happy in the limited small-town pleasures. She motors, plays golf and dances now and then with her husband's friends at the country club. Her name was Joan Sawyer.

IF A LIST could be furnished, it would surprise those living in Broadway's narrow little world how many have drunk deep of the White Way gale and found the taste bitter. In every small city there are several who know Broadway like the proverbial book. They have had their fun in the lighted canyon, but the idea of ever being drawn back to it makes them laugh right out loud. They are quite content to spend their evenings rocking on the front porch and listening to the radio. They feel so much better in the morning.

THE incurable Broadwayite — and Broadway in this sense is not a street, but a state of consciousness—thinks he would be miserable away from it. He is like a bear in a Western zoo placed in a large enclosure, but which day in and out walks a few steps forward and backward. The animal grew up in a cage and cannot realize there is more room in the world.

TERRY HOME TO BE A SHRINE

Daughter of Actress Favors Proposals to Erect Shrine to Her.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, July 27.—The picturesque old home at Small Hythe, Kent, where Ellen Terry spent her last days, probably will be dedicated as a national shrine of the drama. This became fairly certain when it was learned that Edith Craig, daughter of the famous actress, favors a proposal made by the old Lyceum Players' Association, that the house be preserved for the public.

The structure has been called a "cottage," but in reality it is an old-time oaken farmhouse. It is a solid old structure, containing hand-hewn oak beams, large open fireplaces and other quaint features of a by-gone day. It is thought to have been built before the Reformation. The house and the grounds surrounding it, including a small cottage in which Miss Craig made her home, were willed by Dame Terry to her daughter.

Smith's stand on the eighteenth amendment, and suggesting that all Presbyterians support "a party which has made prohibition a strong plank in its platform" was adopted yesterday by a unanimous vote of the California and Nevada synod of the Presbyterian church.

Dr. Hugh Walker, moderator of the general assembly, declared he would desert the prohibition party of which he had been a member for 42 years to help defeat for President "a man who has announced he will attempt to modify and thus nullify the eighteenth amendment."

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

Measurements Are Followed These Recipes Should Give Good Results.

Diced or sliced oranges served with stewed prunes make a good combination for the breakfast table. Prunes should be stewed just enough to soften them, and they may be very slightly sweetened if desired. Peel the oranges, remove all the white rind, cut in thin slices or into dice, and add one-half an orange and four prunes for each serving. A little of the prune juice may be added. The mixture should be thoroughly chilled.

Cabbage Salad.
An excellent salad from the health point of view is one made of shredded raw cabbage with a dressing. The new cabbage may be shredded very fine and chopped green pepper added for color and additional flavor. To each cup of shredded cabbage add one-half cup of cream, one teaspoon of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of dry mustard, one teaspoon of sugar and about two teaspoons of vinegar or lemon juice. Mix the dry seasonings, add the vinegar and then stir them into the cabbage. Stir rapidly and mix with a fork. This has enough food value to save with whole wheat raisin bread sandwiches and a beverage for a wholesome, nutritious lunch. Its crispness and pleasant flavor make it appealing to the hot weather appetite.

Angel Food Cake.
Beat the whites of five eggs until frothy. Sift in one-quarter teaspoon of cream of tartar and continue beating until the egg whites are stiff enough to stand up points when the egg beater is lifted out. Sift three-quarters of a cup of granulated sugar and add gradually to the egg whites, beating with a wire whip or a sifter. Sift one-half cup of cake flour with one-quarter teaspoon of baking powder four times. Fold the flour into the egg white mixture with the spoon. Add one-half teaspoon of vanilla and put the mixture into an ungreased angel cake pan. Bake in a slow oven—325 degrees—for 30 minutes, then increase the heat to 350 degrees and continue the cooking about 15 minutes longer.

If you have no heat controlled oven, do not light the gas until you get the cake into the oven. Then turn the burners about one-third off and let the cake cook slowly for the same length of time. When you invert the pan on a wire rack, the cake will drop from the pan, but sometimes it needs to be loosened carefully. Do not do this, however, until the cake is cold.

Ice Cream Puffs.
Put one-half cup of water and one-half cup of butter into a saucepan and heat to the boiling point. Boil until the butter melts. Sift one-half cup of flour with one-quarter teaspoon of salt and stir it into the boiling liquid. Cook for one minute, then add one-half cup of milk and cook over a slow flame until the mixture forms a smooth dough that leaves the sides of the pan and sticks to the spoon. Remove from the fire and cool for five minutes.

Then beat in your egg yolks, one at a time, beating each one in thoroughly before adding the next. Drop from a teaspoon on a greased baking pan, leaving at least an inch between the cream puffs. Bake in a hot oven—400 degrees—about 10 minutes or until well puffed and brown. If they are not cooked long enough they are likely to collapse when taken from the oven. When cold cut a slit along the side of each and remove any lumpy mixture that is on the inside. Fill with ice cream.

Alligator Pear Cocktail.
Cut pears in halves, remove the core, peel and cut pulp into half-inch cubes. Sprinkle with lime juice and chill thoroughly. Serve in chilled glasses and garnish with maraschino cherry.

DEVELY Creamed Cheese

When these little tarts are made just before you try to include the creamed cheese in your menu. Appetizing and twice as healthy as the richest meat, creamed cheese may be combined with many vegetables, made into delicious salads, cakes or a wonderful "apple filling" and sandwiches.

MAKE COFFEE FOR CAMPERS
The Pulverized Variety is Convenient When Hiking or Camping.
It is best to take pulverized coffee to camp for campers generally make boiled coffee.
They cheese cloth bags and some white string may be taken along to add in the making of the morning coffee. The water may be boiled in any suitable utensil and the requisite number of tablespoons of pulverized coffee put into one of the bags, which has been washed and made sterile and tied with the string and dropped into the boiling water, two to four tablespoons per quart, for two or three minutes, when it can be removed. Instead of having a number of these bags it is all right to have one. Rinse it out with plain water after being used each morning, and then put it away in cold water in a Mason jar, closely covered.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY IN SUMMER FRUITS

Delicious to Eat, They Are, Besides, Rich Storehouses of Health.

Hot midsummer days have compensations: Is there ever a time of year when fruits are quite so delicious? Not that their exquisite flavors are the only gifts which these fruits give to us. They are rich storehouses of food value besides.

Peaches come naturally to mind first as they are so universally popular. If for one moment you have been thinking of the peach as merely a dainty addition to your summer table, listen to this. Peaches furnish lime for bones, phosphorus for cell building, iron for blood, sodium and magnesium for regulating the body. How is that for combining melons with which we like to begin our midsummer breakfasts. Don't think for a moment that there are merely indulgences. Musk melons alone furnish more lime than peaches, as much phosphorus and sodium, and as much iron.

As for berries, berries are wanting, it is true, but raspberries and blackberries are with us. Raspberries are still upon the list when it comes to food time, and while they furnish no lime their phosphorus is very much to the fore. Then plums. This always popular fruit gives as much iron as any other and more than most. Wouldn't you rather have a "cold" or purple plum than a spoonful of old-fashioned bitter medicine? Take my word for it, the plum will do you more good.

And don't forget pears. This delicious fruit joins with its brother fruits in helping build bones, for it too has food lime in abundance. It contains enough iron to put it in the class of tonic foods and its phosphorus keeps many a busy cell of our bodies functioning in perfect order.

It seems to me that these facts, dry and uninteresting in themselves are in the last analysis almost exciting. To learn these facts will help us to enjoy our summer fruits not only with a clear conscience but with an actual feeling of virtue! It is such a good plan to keep the pleasant things of life upmost whenever it is possible and certainly this is more than possible in planning how best to get the good from our delicious midsummer fruits.

Fruits are not only a good substitute for bitter medicine but for cosmetics. In these days of over-extended rouge and lipstick, how pleasant it is to realize that a much more artistic effect might be obtained from eating fruits in abundance!

SERVE BOILED BEEF TONGUE WITH SAVORY RAISIN SAUCE
This is a Satisfactory Main Dish for a Company Sunday Dinner.

Select a smoked beef tongue weighing about three pounds. Soak it overnight in cold water to cover. Next morning drain, cover with fresh water and add a small onion in which have been stuck two or three cloves, a small piece of bay-leaf and one slice of carrot. Heat rapidly to the boiling point and then boil very slowly for an hour and a half. The water should be kept just at the boiling point.

Remove the tongue from the water and skin it. Trim off most of the root end and arrange the tongue on a hot platter. Pour raisin sauce over it and serve hot. The sauce may be passed separately if desired and the tongue garnished instead with watercress and slices of lemon.

For the raisin sauce take one and a half cups of the water in which the tongue has been boiled and add one teaspoon of corn-starch mixed with a little cold water. Heat to the boiling point, stirring constantly, and cook for five minutes or until thickened and clear. Then add one-quarter of a cup of currant jelly or two tablespoons of grape juice or one and a half tablespoons of lemon juice. Add one-third of a cup of seedless raisins. Let simmer for five minutes before serving. It may be necessary to add a little salt, but taste the sauce first to find out whether it is seasoned enough or not.

A FIFTY-CENT MAIN DISH
Add a Tasty Dessert and Have a Filling Meal for Four.

Housewives frequently complain of the impossibility of preparing a meat and vegetable dish at a medium cost price.

The following dish which will serve at least four persons can be prepared at the outside cost of 50 cents:

Take 35 cents worth of round steak, 5 cents each of carrots, onions and potatoes.

Have steak cut in four portions. Lay these on the bottom of a steaming pan. Add a layer of onions, then a layer of carrots and a thick layer of potatoes sliced mediumly thick.

Season well. Cover with water and cook over a slow flame or fire for about two hours.

When to Salt Vegetables.
Salt should not be added to the water in which delicate green vegetables are cooked until they are almost done. To preserve the color, greens should be cooked in an uncovered pan.

SIX TESTED RECIPES FOR BANANA DISHES

Easy to Prepare, Attractive to Serve and Delightful to Eat.

You can buy bananas any time, anywhere. The banana is one of the cheapest foods available. When ripe, it is instantly ready to serve. It may be eaten at any meal or between meals: for breakfast with cereals it gives flavor and nourishment. In a child's lunchbox, it satisfies the childish appetite and craving for sweets. It is an emergency ration dear to the housewife for it may be used as a fruit, an entree, a vegetable, a salad or a dessert.

Broiled Bananas.
Allow one banana for each person. Cut in halves crosswise, then in halves lengthwise. Dip in melted butter then in soft bread crumbs. Grease the wires of a broiler, set the bananas in place, and broil, first on one side, then on the other, over a slow fire.

Baked Bananas.
Put bananas in a baking dish. Peel the oranges, and divide them into sections. Add the sections to the top of the bananas. (Any juice from the oranges may be added to the lemon juice). Sift the sugar over the bananas and oranges; add lemon juice, and bake for 20 minutes. Serve hot or cold. This is especially good with cold meats.

Banana Custard Pie.
Line a deep pie dish with pie crust. Fill nearly to the top with sliced bananas. Sprinkle with three tablespoons sugar. Mix beaten egg, one teaspoon sugar, pinch of salt, milk and vanilla. Pour over the bananas, and bake until the bananas are soft and the custard is set.

Chops and Bananas.
Cook chops in the usual way. When three-quarters done, put one or two slices of banana above each chop and finish cooking. Turn each piece of banana over. Remove chops and bananas together to a hot serving dish.

Baked Apples and Bananas.
Wash apples and core them. Put one-half a banana which has been rolled in sugar and cinnamon in the cavity. Bake in a hot oven. Serve either hot or cold.

Hot Weather Dessert.
Line sherbet glasses with slices of bananas. Fill with ice cream. Decorate with whipped cream sprinkled with grated coconut.

NEW COOL SUMMER DRINKS THAT ARE MOST REFRESHING
On a Warm Day They Will Give Added Nourishment at Meals.

The clever hostess finds many interesting recipes for concocting iced drinks.

A refreshing drink is made by combining pineapple juice with any of the good table waters, especially gingerale or with freshly brewed tea or with the juice of other fruits.

Pineapple Morning Glory.
Mix two-thirds cup of pineapple juice, a pinch of salt, two tablespoonfuls lemon juice and the juice of one-half orange.

Lemon Shake.

Grape Punch.
Combine one cupful of grape juice, one-half cupful of grapefruit juice, four tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and six tablespoonfuls of syrup. Add one cupful of charged water and one cupful of crushed ice. Chill and serve.

Harvard Beets.
Wash 12 small beets, cook in boiling water until soft, remove skins and cut beets in slices or cubes. Mix one-half cup sugar in a saucepan with one-half teaspoon cornstarch, and one-half cup of vinegar and boil slowly five minutes, stirring constantly. Put the beets into the sauce and let stand in a hot place 30 minutes. Garnish with slices of green pepper or chopped parsley.

every FRIDAY
in this paper

THE greatest single thing that women have ever done"—so one writer describes what has recently been accomplished in the kitchen and in the dining room by American home makers.

To give their families and guests dishes that are more tempting and more wholesome; to provide that rich variety so vital to health—what care and thought women are giving to this daily problem!

Thousands upon thousands of letters reach us every year asking for information and making suggestions. Libby's Experimental Kitchen in charge of Mary Hale Martin has become a central idea exchange—a recipe club that belongs to the women of the country.

Starting today Mary Hale Martin, herself, will tell you every Friday in this paper the latest news on what to serve and how to serve it. Tempting recipes for all kinds of dishes—some Mary Hale Martin's own, some sent in by her many friends—all tested by her.

With over 100 choice foods to offer, Libby is publishing this weekly section by Mary Hale Martin in order to make them of more service to you and to your family. In your neighborhood you will find a grocer who carries a wide range of Libby foods.

For new ways to please your family and your guests, read Mary Hale Martin's first section, on this page. Watch for it every Friday in this paper under the heading, "What shall we have to eat today?"

EVERY FRIDAY as part of our recipe and information services we offer these columns appearing in this paper. All recipes have been tested in our experimental kitchen by Mary Hale Martin, Cooking Correspondent.

Some hints about refrigerator management

Here are some little ways I've found to make that efficient servant, the refrigerator, function to the very best of its ability.

I arrange foods in the icebox systematically, putting those of the same sort together, and the most perishable articles in the coldest part of the box. I find that I get the best results if I always use covered dishes. Then there can be no intermingling of flavors, food does not dry out, and there is less chance of spoiling. It is best not to crowd the dishes in the refrigerator for they will not be thoroughly cooled unless there is free circulation of the air around them.

Wrapping ice to save it is mistaken economy. It is by absorbing heat and melting that ice cools the box.

All the hints given in these Friday columns are ones that I have found of practical help. And all the recipes are tested in my kitchen. Mary Hale Martin, Cooking Correspondent, Libby, McNeill & Libby, Dept. PD-1, Welfare Bldg., Chicago.

To remind you of Parisian boulevards

French Pancakes are the kind of dish that's served under the gay awnings on the Parisian boulevards. And how good they taste spread with that typically American sweet—Apple Butter! For the real, old-fashioned sort, try Libby's Apple Butter. It is made from juicy apples boiled down with cider and spices.

French Pancakes with Apple Butter

1 cup flour 2 eggs, well beaten
1/2 cup sugar Grated rind 1/2 lemon
1/2 tsp. salt 1 tsp. lemon juice
1/2 cup Libby's Evaporated Milk diluted with 1/2 cup water
1 1/2 cups Libby's Apple Butter
Sift dry ingredients. Add diluted Evaporated Milk gradually to make a smooth mixture. Add the eggs and lemon. Drop the batter by spoonfuls on a hot greased griddle, making very thin cakes about the size of a plate. Fill with Libby's Apple Butter, and roll. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. (Serves four)

Stuffed Dill Pickle Salad made with Libby's Dill Pickles (see recipe below)

make these salads tempting*

OF course we all instinctively want to make our meals attractive, but did you know there is a real, scientific reason why we should? Experiment has shown that food which is tempting in appearance and taste starts a flow of gastric juices that makes digestion quicker and more thorough. So it's really a necessity that food should be appetizing enough "to make the mouth water."

As you know, variety is one way to this necessary attractiveness. The three salads given here achieve it by interesting touches that I'm sure you'll want to know about. So that these salads may taste as good as they look, I make each with a particularly delicious ingredient.

In the pictured dish it is Libby's Dill Pickles with their teasing, elusive flavor. Libby's Fruits for Salad is another of the reasons why these salads are so delicious. It includes five tempting fruits cut and mixed ready for serving. And then there is Libby's Pineapple, ripened under tropic suns in far Hawaii.

If your grocer does not carry Libby Foods, please send us his name and address.

Stuffed Dill Pickle Salad

6 Libby's Dill Pickles
1/2 cup chopped celery
2 hard cooked eggs
2 tbsps. chopped green pepper
1 No. 1 can Libby's Genuine Deviled Ham
1/2 cup mayonnaise 1 pkg. cream cheese
Cut Pickles in half lengthwise and scoop out centers. Mix celery, chopped eggs, green pepper, Deviled Ham and mayonnaise together. Add pickle centers, finely chopped. Fill Pickle halves with salad and arrange two on a bed of shredded lettuce for each serving. (Serves six)

Frozen Fruit Salad with Mint

1 No. 2 1/2 can Libby's Fruits for Salad
1 cup mayonnaise 1 pkg. cream cheese
1 bunch fresh mint
Pack Fruits for Salad in equal parts ice and salt for five hours. Plunge in boiling water and remove from can, placing on platter. To mayonnaise, add cream cheese, broken in small pieces and beat well. Surround Salad with this and garnish with mint. (Serves six)

Pineapple, Cabbage and Date Salad

1 No. 2 1/2 can Libby's Sliced Hawaiian Pineapple
1 head lettuce 3 cups shredded cabbage
1/2 cup dates (cut small)
1/2 cup mayonnaise Hot cheese crackers
Arrange a slice of Pineapple on lettuce. Mix cabbage and dates with mayonnaise, and heap on each slice of Pineapple. Serve with hot toasted cheese crackers. (Serves eight)

An unusual way to serve left-over corn

Next time you're planning the meals and see a dish of left-over corn on the refrigerator shelf, try this Corn Custard. Velvety-smooth, full of rich corn flavor, it's just the kind of dish that pampered family of yours will enjoy. Libby's Evaporated Milk, which is pure, convenient and economical, gives it that creamy richness. Good cooks use it regularly for coffee, cooking and baking.

Corn Custard

6 eggs (beaten slightly)
1/2 cup Libby's Evaporated Milk, diluted with 1 cup hot water 1 tsp. salt
1 1/2 cups corn 3 tbsps. bread crumbs
1 tsp. butter

To the slightly beaten eggs add Evaporated Milk. Add salt and corn and pour into ramekins. Sprinkle top with bread crumbs and dot with butter. Bake 35 to 40 minutes in a slow oven (325°F.) until firm and custard-like. (Serves six)

Good for baby—a favorite with father—canned tomato juice

Now, when oranges are expensive, we can rejoice that tomato juice has come into its own. Dietitians are proclaiming it a splendid food for babies; served cold, with just a dash of seasoning, it makes a delicious appetizer. So next time you open a can of Libby's Tomatoes, remember that all the family, including the youngest member, will be delighted to help you use up the juice. Libby's Tomatoes have that fresh flavor because they are packed the very day they are gathered.

Good things to serve at an evening bridge party

Is your husband one of those hospitable souls who love to entertain? If so, a pleasant way to satisfy him without too much work for yourself is to plan a table or two of bridge for the evening. Simple, delicious refreshments, like those suggested here, can be prepared in the morning and brought in all at once on the tea cart. The usual discussion of clubs and spades will cool down under the soothing influence of Frozen Fruit Salad. Savoring its goodness, even the partner who failed to open his best suit may be forgiven.

CEREALS AND VIOLET LIGHT

The Treatment Imparts the Important Vitamin D to Grains.

Cereals irradiated with ultra violet light have been placed on the general food list of several large child welfare institutions, according to an announcement made last week.

Through irradiation, Vitamin D can be imparted to grains. This is the particular food factor which aids the human body, especially that of the growing child, to retain the lime and phosphorus salts needed to build bone and tissue. Without it in the food, or exposure of the child's body to the short rays of the sun or the ultra violet of sun-lamps, the bone building mineral salts are not made available and the soft bones denoting rickets occur.

Prof. Harry Steenbock of the University of Wisconsin discovered the method of thus imparting Vitamin D to cereals four years ago, but it is only recently that quantity production sufficient for the immediate needs of institutions caring for undernourished children was begun.

During that time the cereals have been subjected to feeding tests in the Wisconsin University laboratories.

Similar tests have been made under carefully controlled conditions in various other medical centers, showing that irradiated foods not only act as a preventive against rickets but in some instances effected cures.

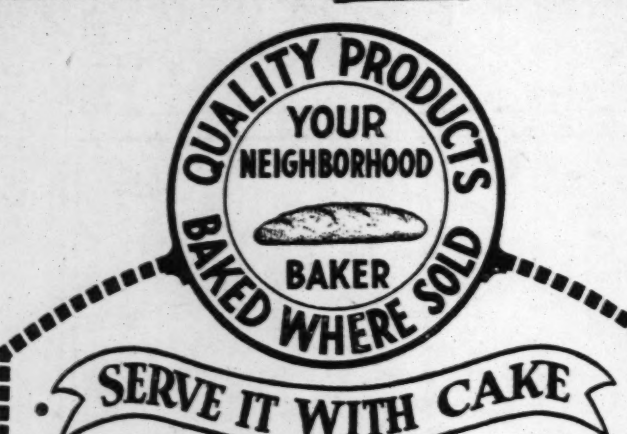

An Economical Hint.
It will be found more economical to buy half a ham and have one or two slices cut from it, and boil the rest to eat cold later on in the week or to use for sandwiches if lunches are to be prepared.

Gooseberry Jelly.
Take equal parts of rather underripe cherries and gooseberries. Cook the fruit for a few moments to extract the juices and then turn into a wet jelly bag. Let drip overnight or until all the juice has been strained through. Measure the juice thus extracted and get ready an equal quantity of sugar. Bring the juice to the boiling point and boil rapidly for 10 minutes. Add the sugar and stir until it is thoroughly dissolved. Boil for 10 minutes more or until a little will turn to jelly on a cold saucer. Pour into sterilized, hot glasses and seal with paraffin.

Baked Parsnips.
Pare and cut parsnips in halves. Cover with boiling water and cook until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain, brush over with oil or melted fat and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place in greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes.

Drained-Dry... Yet see how they Sparkle

It's a new quick way to wash dishes. No soapy film...no reddened hands

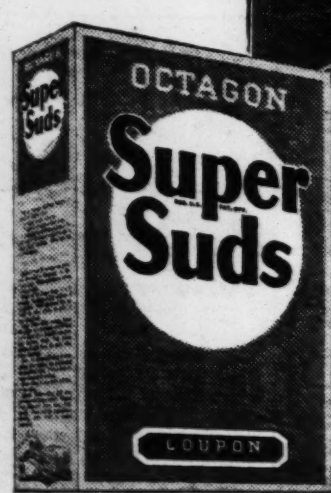

Amazing new form of soap in tiny thin-walled "beads" makes dishes glisten without the aid of towels... dissolves instantly...rinses like magic... keeps hands dainty and soft. It's an Octagon product made by a revolutionary patented process.

PILE of dirty dishes.
A dishpan full of steaming hot water. Just pour in Super Suds. . . . and you'll learn the secret of glistening, gleaming china in fifteen minutes! It's really amazing. You can actually see that grease and grime come off. Just a quick hot rinse and dishes are washed clean.
There's no soapy film. No need to polish. Just let your dishes dry by themselves. . . . and then see how they sparkle.
There's no mystery to it. We've simply made an astonishing new form of soap called Super Suds.

First bar soap—then chips—now Super Suds
Years ago women had only bar soap—but that was unsatisfactory. How hard they had to work getting a soapy solution, and how hard it was to rinse away those clinging soap particles.

Modern, Super Suds is great for clothes washing. Get your good money's worth with much less drudgery. Our advice is, be sure to "try it next washday."

Dishes sparkle in no time when washed with Super Suds. And women never have to worry about reddened hands. Super Suds never harms them.

Next came chips. Many women changed to this form of soap because it could be stirred into a cleansing solution. But clothes and dishes had to be rinsed too much in order to get rid of the undissolved soap.

Now comes Super Suds, and women are changing to it by the thousands in preference to all other forms of soap.
Super Suds is not a chip... not a powder... but a remarkable new form of soap in tiny hollow beads, so thin that they burst into suds the instant they touch water.
Four times as thin as chips, Super Suds is the thinnest soap made.

Why Super Suds is better
In this new soap women have discovered two distinct advantages:
First, Super Suds is so thin it dissolves instantly... saves time and trouble.
Second, Super Suds dissolves completely... no undissolved soap to leave spots on clothes or film on dishes. Women like Super Suds because it does the work faster and better than any other form of soap.
It's at your grocer's today. Just phone and ask for Super Suds.

MEN LIKE FRUIT DUMPLINGS

Dumplings, baked or steamed, are always welcomed and may be made with various fillings.

Apples are the first thought, but all kinds of fruits and berries and raisins may be used.

Cooked, dried fruits with a rich sauce are good.

The dough is a biscuit dough rolled thin and cut into five-inch squares.

When the filling is in place, opposite corners of the squares are picked up and pinched together. The dumplings are placed in deep dripping pans without crowding.

A sugar and water syrup thickened with flour is sometimes poured around them before baking. By the time they are baked the syrup is all absorbed.

GOOSEBERRY FOOL IS AN OLD-FASHIONED DESSERT

Few Modern Cooks Know How to Make This Anti-Bellum Dessert.

In our grandmother's days, one of the most popular desserts was gooseberry fool. And here is the way to make it.

Cook until soft a quart of ripe berries in just enough water to cover, press through a sieve to remove the skins and seeds and while still hot add a cup of sugar, a tablespoon of melted butter and the beaten yolks of three eggs and whip the whole together until light. Pour into a serving dish and when cool set on the ice to chill thoroughly. Before serving spread on top of the liquid the egg whites, which have been stiffly beaten with three tablespoons of sugar. Serve in small glasses.

The next most popular gooseberry dainty is the gooseberry tart which may be made according to this recipe.

Gooseberry Tarts.

Make a nice puff paste; roll it out the usual thickness as for pies; then cut it out into circular pieces about the size of a small tea saucer. Pile the fruit on half of the paste. Sprinkle over some sugar, wet the edges and turn the paste over. Press the edges together, ornament them and brush the turnovers with the beaten white of an egg. Sprinkle over sifted sugar and bake on time in a brisk oven for about 20 minutes. Instead of putting the fruit in raw, it may first be boiled down with a little sugar and then enclosed in the crust.

VALUE OF YEAST AS A FOOD

German Medical Man Attests to Food Value of This Product.

Extraordinarily beneficial effects are exerted on the digestive tract by the ordinary yeast cake, according to Dr. Friedrich Kraus, dean of the German medical profession.

Dr. Kraus, who is known throughout the world as "teacher of half the doctors of Europe," celebrated his seventieth birthday recently.

The line Dr. Kraus' latest experiments are taking was revealed by an interview in which he told of the extraordinarily beneficial effects which the ordinary yeast cake has been found to exert on the digestive tract.

"As much as ten years ago," said Dr. Kraus, "we began here in Germany to prescribe yeast as an intestinal cleanser in order to get rid of harmful waste products of indigestion and to destroy bacteria."

"Yeast contains important vitamins and other elements necessary to health and growth. It is, therefore, a good food for mankind."

Coming from one of the world's greatest authorities on digestive and intestinal disorders, Dr. Kraus' statement is arousing widespread interest.

Dr. Kraus rose from the humblest of beginnings to the position of Geheimer Medizinal Professor of the Medical School of the University of Berlin. Translated, his title means Privy Councillor for Medical Affairs and is said to have been established by Frederick the Great, friend of Voltaire and patron of the arts and sciences in Prussia.

For years Dr. Kraus has wielded a powerful influence over the affairs of the Berlin Medical Society.

and thus on medical thought throughout the world. In 1902 he was picked to succeed the great Karl Gerhardt as lecturer and physician at the Charité Hospital, perhaps the leading medical clinic of the world. In this capacity he continued for 25 years.

When he retired to pursue his private researches over 3400 scientific treatises were said to have been issued under his supervision.

At 70 years of age, Geheimrat Dr. Friedrich Kraus is just beginning to solve the mysteries of life and health that have baffled him for over 40 years.

New Tricks in Salads

by Mary Blake

If you have mechanical refrigeration, don't fail to use this new convenience of the delightful new frozen dishes which have brought into popularity. Not only are there a host of delectable dishes that can be whisked together, slid into the refrigerator and frozen without packing and freezing, but salads have also been added to the list of refrigerator-frozen dishes.

Some of these salads are made with fruit, others with vegetables, but all of them have one feature in common—a feature which makes both for deliciousness and economy—the use of whipped Carnation Milk as their base in place of whipped cream! My new book of refrigerator-frozen salads and desserts tells just how to whip Carnation Milk by boiling the can two or three minutes, then chilling it, and adding ¼ teaspoon of gelatine for each cup of milk.

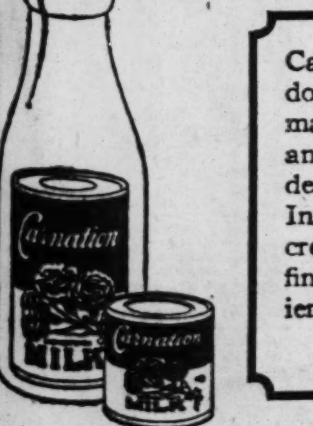

You have doubtless used Carnation Milk for various types of cookery—for soups and sauces because of the velvety texture and rich creaminess which result for wonderful candies, smooth and fine-grained; for delicate, fragile cakes and puddings. And like every one else, you know how famous it is for rich, velvet-smooth ice cream.

All of these results come from definite qualities. Carnation Milk is simply the purest and freshest of whole milk, evaporated to double richness, "homogenized" and sterilized for safe-keeping. Because of its double portion of cream, it makes foods richly creamy without the use of extra butter and cream. Because it is "homogenized" it gives an exceptionally smooth, fine texture. And because it is always uniform in quality it produces more certainly successful results.

If you haven't learned all these things about Carnation Milk, the Carnation Cook Book will guide you in real discoveries of its convenience, economy and dependability. Won't you send for it? It is free. Address Carnation Milk Products Co., 100 Carnation Bldg., Oconomowoc, Wis.

Carnation Cheese Salad

¼ tsp. gelatine, 1 tsp. cold water, 1 cup mayonnaise, 1 cup Carnation Milk, whipped, 2 packages cream cheese, 2 tsp. Carnation Milk, ¼ tsp. salt, 1 cup celery, ½ cup sweet pickles, ½ cup pecans. Soak gelatine in cold water 5 minutes; dissolve over hot water. Beat dissolved gelatine into mayonnaise; fold this into whipped Carnation; fold whipped Carnation into cheese which has been softened with 2 tsp. Carnation. Add salt and chopped celery, sweet pickles and pecans. Freeze without stirring; cut in cubes; serve on crisp lettuce, garnish with slices of pickle or parsley. Serves 10.

Carnation Milk, with its double helping of cream, makes particularly rich and delicious gelatine desserts and frozen salads. In cookery its use saves cream and butter. You'll find it unusually convenient and dependable.

KRATKY PREDICTS CAULFIELD VICTORY

Addresses Meeting of City Employees Who Reside in 13th Ward.

Responding to numbered invitations sent them through the mail, approximately 100 city employees who are residents of the Thirteenth Ward met last night at Rubicam Hall, Grand boulevard and Potomac street, and heard Robert J. Kratky, campaign manager and political adviser of Mayor Miller, outline plans for the primary in the ward.

Kratky told the men at the meeting, who represented about 45 per cent of the city employees in the ward, that he was confident that Hoover would carry Missouri and that Henry S. Caulfield would be nominated in the primaries and elected Governor in November.

Kratky announced that he was going to move into the Thirteenth for the primaries, meaning, apparently, that he intended to center his strength on a fight in the ward on the candidates for committee-man.

The Thirteenth Ward Progressive Republican Club, representing the Miller machine, is backing Herman Krah, incumbent, for reelection. The Schmoll-Koeln-Forst faction is pushing Louis J. Reidel, who because of this support, is recognized as a dangerous opponent to the Miller candidate.

Following is the text of the invitations sent to city employees in the ward and surrendered by them at the door as tokens of admission:

"There will be a meeting at Rubicam Hall, Grand and Potomac streets, on Thursday evening, July 26, 1929, at 8:00 p. m. for city employees only.

"This meeting concerns the present political situation and it is requested that you do not fail to attend.

"Admission will be by this letter only, which must be presented at the door. Sincerely, 13th Ward Progressive Republican Club, A. H. Heldstock, president; Wm. Duff, treasurer; Ralph J. Panzer, secretary.

It was stated after the meeting, however, that no direct reference was made to the fact that those in attendance held city jobs and no threats of discharge, veiled or otherwise, were made for failure to string along with the Miller faction.

Heldstock, the other speaker at the gathering, declared the purpose of the club was to "keep things going for the organization" and to promote a "clean fight." He cautioned against "mud slinging," stating that the club will help its candidates through "harmonious organization" and not by making personal attacks on rival candidates.

Heldstock called attention to the fact that "any sort of an organization needs funds" and suggested that a $5 contribution from each city employee in the ward would be welcome. He stressed the point, however, that there is no obligation on the part of a city employee to contribute to the club fund. He promised that a dollar would be set aside as a year's dues from each contribution, the residue being used to carry on the campaign work. The club, which has 700 members, will "stand behind" a city employee in the matter of promotion providing the employee is properly qualified, Heldstock said.

Kratky has distributed to ward organizations his slate of candidates, including Sidenor for Circuit Attorney, Henry S. Caulfield for Governor and David H. Proctor for Senator. Mayor Miller today said Kratky had not discussed the slate with him and it was not to be considered as his slate.

"City employees are at liberty to vote and work for whomsoever they wish, without fear of losing their positions," Mayor Miller said.

The Mayor has made a public announcement in favor of only one candidate so far—Caulfield.

FRANKLIN MILLER DIRECTING OWN PRIMARY FIGHT

Board of Police Commissioners and Sidenor's only formidable opponent in the Republican primary, has been concentrating his offensive upon Sidenor's record in office, attacking him for such miscarriage of justice as the Motlow and Ruthenford cases and charging that because of the numerous storms through which his administration has passed, including several grand jury investigations, the public has lost confidence in him.

Freund has been active in speaking before ward organizations as well as at meetings of semi-political organizations. He is directing his campaign just as Miller is pushing his own fight.

Sidenor, who is an old stager at the political game and a man who is known among politicians as a "good runner," is pushing his fight quietly, but along approved machine lines. Supporters of Mayor Miller, notably Robert J. Kratky, the Mayor's campaign manager and most trusted adviser, have been working for Sidenor. The Circuit Attorney also has ample support in the ward organizations, but it has been kept under cover generally, possibly because of the public indignation against Sidenor's record as a prosecutor.

I'LL TELL THE WORLD

By Neal O'Hara

THE SPACE GRABBERS.

"ON June 30," said Secretary Ruffitt of the Allied Space Grabbing Industries, "we closed a successful fiscal year. Our fast selling product was marooned dancing. Flagpole sitting fell off slightly and public interest over who could drink more than 213 cups of coffee also flagged a bit. But, on the whole, 1927-28 has been a bumper year."

"Starting in a small way in 1922," continued the Secretary, "the Allied Space Grabbing Industries can honestly be classed with the Ford Motor Co. and the orangeade stands for rapid growth. We organized this industry at a most propitious time. The public had just got back to normal after the discovery of Eskimo pie when our guiding genius, Mr. Emory B. Whiffle, decided the time was ripe for giving the populace what it wanted. He therefore organized a piano-playing marathon in Davenport, Ia."

"The original record of 39 consecutive hours was speedily surpassed by a Mobile, Ala., athlete, who whacked the ivories for 47 hours and 19 minutes. In no time at all, piano playing marathons everywhere were going full blast, except in the vicinity of hospitals, where our contestants applied the soft pedal in conducting their tests."

"With piano marathons at the height of their vogue, Mr. Whiffle was not caught flatfooted, but brought out a brand new line to capture cosmic attention. This was channel surfing. With or without glasses, once this business was established, we had channel swimmers arriving at Dover, England, on the half hour."

"For a time the supply of successful channel swimmers exceeded the demand. Then Mr. Whiffle stimulated the public appetite by establishing various brands, such as the first single girl to swim the Channel, the first married woman, the first mother of two children, etc."

"Then came 1927, our banner year, when flagpole sitting reached its peak. At one time we had 417 artisans living on flagpoles. In certain territories where the demand was below the allotted quota, we had them sit at halfmast. Today there is hardly a flagpole from the Aroostook County Courthouse to the San Diego High School that has not been sat on by one of our men."

"When the last flagpole sitter was hauled in at sundown on Feb. 17, many trade authorities and economists declared that the saturation point had been reached. But Mr. Whiffle overcame all sales resistance and got to work making blueprints for his masterpiece. That, of course, was the marathon dance."

"With his contact men and technical advisers, Mr. Whiffle sat down and said: 'What can we devise that will keep spectators up till 3 a. m., keep contestants going for weeks at a stretch and still be absolutely useless?' That last clause had the experts baffled for a while. In addition, Mr. Whiffle insisted that whatever torture was devised must be new and not dependent on a coat of grease or a boum's chair."

"Finally, after laboratory tests and conferences, marathon dancing was brought out. It was an overwhelming success. Although it only lasted 21 days, New York voted it was five times as useless as the six-day race."

"We have already booked orders for more marathon dances in Detroit, Buffalo and Cincinnati. In fact, our prospects for 1928-29 are so rosy we may hold back our next leader for another fiscal year. This will be an endurance test to see how many days a man can live in a revolving door."

Shrimp and Nut Salad.

A delightful summer salad that can form the main course of a luncheon. One cup cooked canned shrimp, 1/2 cup chopped pecans, 2 sliced hard-boiled eggs, 1 cup diced celery, 4 tablespoons olive oil, 1/2 teaspoonful salt, the juice of 1 lemon, crisp lettuce. Mix together the shrimps, nuts, celery and salt. Rub the yolks of the eggs through a sieve and add them to the oil and lemon juice. Arrange shrimps and crisp lettuce and pour over them the dressing. Garnish with paprika and rings of hard-boiled whites. Mayonnaise may be served separately if desired.

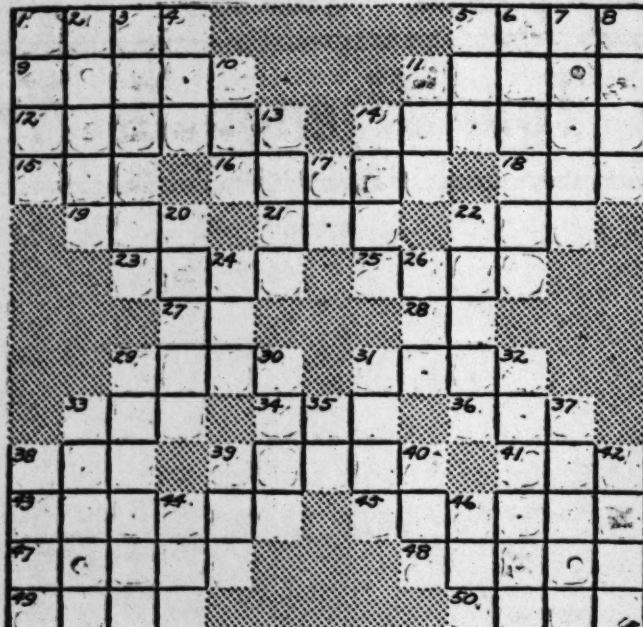

Keeping Cool in Summer.

After a torrid summer day spent in the shops or in a busy office, it is not an easy task to return home and dress for a dinner engagement feeling and looking cool and refreshed. It will prove very effective if when you arrive home all tight clothing is removed and a loose negligee donned. Recline for at least 15 minutes with a cold damp wash cloth laid across the bare ankles. This will reduce the temperature of the body and by the same token permit you to relax and become rested.

Avoid Open Shelves.

Plenty of shelf space is always welcome to the housewife, but many open shelves in the kitchen are most unwise. They collect dust and grease, attract roaches and mice and prove a temptation to use them as an easy refuge for what should be kept, thereby creating a

ETIQUETTE

By Katherine de Peyster.

A GOOD COMPROMISE.

Is it perfectly all right to wear an evening wrap over a lace dress with sleeves?

2. Is it proper to put a salad fork on the right side with the knives when used for serving cake, pie, and so forth? Or is it better to bring it in on the plate with those desserts?

MRS. E. G. C.

1. At first thought this combination of a formal wrap with an informal dress would seem inappropriate. But, on second thought, this might be possible as a compromise, if the wrap is not especially dressy, and the dress of a more or less formal type. Sometimes a lace dress with sleeves inclines to the evening dress type; in fact, in some styles, even with sleeves, it is an evening dress. Won't you write me more of their style so that I may more definitely judge?

2. It is better to bring in the dessert fork and spoon when the dessert is served.

THE TIN WEDDING.

I AM going to give a tenth anniversary dinner party for six unmarried friends. Would it be proper to call them by telephone or send each a written or printed invitation?

2. Is the tenth anniversary copier?

3. It would show far better taste and you could get a far more gracious tone into your invitation if you write the invitations. Inviting by telephone doesn't give much credit to the invitation, and invitations should never be printed. The written invitation can be very charming, a fitting harbinger of the hospitality that you are to offer.

4. No. The tenth anniversary is symbolized by tin.

ANNOUNCING IT.

When and how is an engagement announced, and who makes the announcement? Is it necessary to have my fiancée's parents over for a dinner, and if so, is the announcement made at the dinner table?

JUST YOUR FRIEND.

An engagement is announced usually in the simplest possible kind of way. When the engagement has been determined on, the man tells his parents, and the next day (appropriately within the next 24 hours) they go to call on their son's fiancée and welcome her into the family. This is a most important call, this call of welcome, and should be most punctiliously done. Then the girl tells her relatives who do not already know, and writes to her close friends and tells them of the engagement.

The fiancée does the same to his relatives and friends. Then, if the girl's parents wish, they make formal announcement of the engagement in the newspapers.

These are the only necessary steps. After this has been done, there may be parties, according to the wishes and taste of the families and friends of the engaged couple.

The announcement to the man's parents should not be made at the dinner-table, since this would not be appropriate. The young man himself tells his father and mother.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

THE HOME ON THE MOUNTAIN.

A home is more than just a nest; it is the place we love the best.

—King Eagle.

IN one of the lonely places on the Great Mountain, where there were few visitors at any time of year, grew a tall tree and in that tree was a great home. It was toward this home that King Eagle was headed. It was his home—the home he and Mrs. Eagle had built many years before. It was not such a great home when they had first built it. It was not more than half its present size. It had been built very largely of sticks. Could you have stood on the ground and looked up at it, you would have said that it was built wholly of sticks. Some of the sticks were large. These were the foundation sticks.

It was not all of sticks, however. Some birds had been worked in among them and some grass. Each year a little had been added. King Eagle and Mrs. Eagle had looked far and wide before they selected that tree for their home.

"You see, my dear," said Mrs. Eagle, "a nest should be more than a nest; it should be a home. A home is a place to come back to. A nest may be left and a new nest built, but a home is a home, and what we want is a home. We want to find just the place and when we have the right place we will raise our families there year after year."

"Quite right, my dear, quite right," said King Eagle, who really cared only to please Mrs. Eagle.

So together they had searched far and wide. They had flown up and down the Great River. They had flown far over the Green Forest. Looking down from high up in the blue sky, they could see everything for miles in all directions, for their eyes were wonderful.

Swinging in great circles, "round and 'round above the Great Mountain, they had looked it all over. And always they had come back to this certain tall tree. Finally Mrs. Eagle said, "This is the tree for our home."

"Right, my dear, quite right," replied King Eagle, and watched while Mrs. Eagle flew down and picked up the first stick. So the home on the mountain was begun. A great platform was built in that tree—a solid platform—and there in time Mrs. Eagle laid her eggs. So was the home begun.

When the cold weather came that fall, two young Eagles had already started out in the Great World from that home, and King Eagle and Mrs. Eagle flew south for a little way. They had to be where they could get food, but their thoughts were always at home. They were back early in the spring. This year there was no hunting about. Straight to their great tree they flew and a wonderful time they had looking over their old home.

"It needs a little repairing on this side," said King Eagle.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Eagle, "and it needs a few sticks on this side."

"Don't you think it would be

"It needs a little repairing on this side," said King Eagle.

even better if it were a little larger?" asked King Eagle.

"The very thought I had in mind," replied Mrs. Eagle. "It was very good last year, but it will be better this year, for we have plenty of time to make it better."

So they added a little here and they added a little there, and by the time Mrs. Eagle was ready to lay her eggs the old home had been so improved that it was almost like a new home. It has been just the same way the next year and the year after that and each succeeding year. Never once had the thought of a new home entered their heads, but always they sought to improve the old home.

Some New Shades For Summer Wear

FASCINATING new shades have been introduced for summer evening wear. Sunlight yellow, a light pure gold shade, much used in Chanel's mid-season collection is lovely in an evening gown of chiffon or crepe.

Tulle, combining lilac and gull gray, made an unusual scheme for an evening gown. Stripes of green and gray were formed the bouffant skirt, with the bodice was of green with a touch of gray outlining the décolletage.

Tea rose pink is another lovely shade, especially when delivered with pink and silver. A pinkish lavender, termed chiffon by the Textile Color Card Association of the United States, and shades of violet blue are much in vogue. Callot combines various gradations of violet, mauve and blue.

THE WAY OF A WOMAN

By—

Marguerite Moores Marshall

THE WOMAN MOVEMENT.

ONE of England's great ladies apparently thinks it time to put the brakes on the woman movement. The Baroness Ravensdale, daughter of the late Marquis of Curzon and of his American wife (Mary Leiter), addresses as follows the Union of Women Voters, which she is president:

"This is a woman-ridden age. We are primarily made to be the mothers of the coming generation."

"Let us have a final disappearance of the feminist movement. We shall lose everything if we make men think we are running everything to their exclusion."

"You have no right to flinch a post from a man as a relief from boredom."

Perhaps it is feline, but an American woman's first reaction to the Baroness' burlesque is that women in England probably have to talk that way to make themselves popular!

For, as Alicia Patterson pointed out in Liberty, recently:

"It is not so much fun to be a woman in England. There are two women to every man since the war, and consequently they take a back seat. A man considers his wife is just good in the capacity of a housekeeper or a mother. He does not credit her with brains or ability. If she shows tendencies to make her own way in the world he quickly puts a stop to it."

"It would be most unkindly for her to sell her hands in any way but to serve him."

"The women put up with it. They have to if they want to get a husband for themselves."

SINCE in the United States both the point of view and the state of affairs are so happily otherwise, let us subject Baroness Ravensdale's said warnings to an American analysis.

"This," laments she, "is a woman-ridden age." Those meek English wives of whom Alicia Patterson writes, would answer, "No such luck!" English women—thanks to a war they didn't start—are numerically preponderant, but neither English nor American women are in the saddle, riding and controlling the age in which they live. It might be a better age, if they were—there's certainly room for improvement on a man's world!

So long as the inertia of biology remains unchanged, Baroness Ravensdale need not state so truculently her truism that "we are primarily made to be the mothers of the coming generation." Modern women have not stopped being mothers; they have merely stopped WITH being mothers. Many of them are learning how to be mothers plus, mothers and something else in addition—not necessarily age-servers, but all-around up-to-date, socially as well as domestically useful women.

It is absurd for the Baroness or any other enlightened woman to recommend at this moment the disappearance of feminism. That much-touted old term simply means a square deal for women in every field. As long as there are laws that still favor men at the expense of women—and that are as long as wages and salaries still favor men at the expense of women—and they do—as long as social and emotional codes still favor men at the expense of women—THEY do—the feminist movement must work and fight to change special favor for one sex to equal justice for both sexes.

NO women, except those few feminists who carry their sense like a chip on their shoulder, even try to make men think that women will run everything to men's exclusion. Just because men of the past practiced an analogous brand of hogishness is no reason why women of the present should follow a bad example. What they want to do—and all that they want to do—is to run things "basis-equal" with men, on a fifty-fifty basis of equal rights and responsibilities, of even-handed justice.

Finally, while it is possible that a few women in England and America may "pick a post from a man as a relief from boredom," the number must be small for two reasons. First, not many women can "flinch a post from a man," because men still are the favored sex in most fields of employment. The corollary of this proposition is that, if a man is any good at his job, he needn't worry about being "flashed" from him by a woman, "bored" or otherwise. Second, the vast majority of working women do not take jobs "as a relief from boredom," but as a relief from impotency. They work a man's work—because they need the money.

No, it's not yet time to put brakes on the woman movement, but while it's still moving uphill incidentally, it is amusing to note that the very dispatch which quoted Baroness Ravensdale's ideas and ending feminist revolt mentions that she herself is on the warg against the man-made rule that pressures in her own right may sit in the House of Lords. It evidently makes a difference whether woman's right is being denied. Most women—all women in America—could endure with placid this particular burning wrong the Baroness', but following a distinguished example, they like to keep right on campaign against the injustices which afflict THEM!

THE WAY —OF— A WOMAN

—By—

Marguerite Moores Marshall

THE WOMAN MOVEMENT.
ONE of England's great ladies apparently thinks it time to put the brakes on the woman movement. The Baroness Ravensdale, daughter of the late Marquis of Queens and of his American wife (Mary Leiter), addresses as follows the Union of Women Voters of which she is president:

"This is a woman-ridden age. We are primarily made to be the mothers of the coming generation."

"Let us have a final disappearance of the feminist movement. We shall lose everything if we make men think we shall run everything to their exclusion."

"You have no right to flinch a foot from a man as a relief from boredom."

Perhaps it is futile, but an American woman's first reaction to the Baroness's burblings is that women in England probably have to talk that way to make themselves popular.

For as Alicia Patterson pointed out in Liberty, recently:

"It is not so much fun to be a woman in England. There are two women to every man since the war, and consequently they take a back seat. A man considers his wife is only good in the capacity of a housekeeper or a mother. He does not credit her with brains or ability. If she shows tendencies to make her own way in the world he quickly puts a stop to it."

"It would be most unkindly for her to soil her hands in any way but to serve him."

The women put up with it. They have to if they want to get a husband for themselves."

SINCE in the United States both the point of view and the state of affairs are happily otherwise, let us subject Baroness Ravensdale's sad warnings to an American analysis.

"This," laments she, "is a woman-ridden age." Those meek English wives, of whom Alicia Patterson writes, would answer, "No such luck!" English women—thanks to a war they didn't start—are unusually preponderant; but neither English nor American women are in the saddle, riding and controlling the age in which they live. It might be a better age, if they were—there's certainly room for improvement on a man's world.

So long as the laws of biology remain unchanged, Baroness Ravensdale need not state so truculently her truism that "we are primarily made to be the mothers of the coming generation." Modern women have not stopped being mothers; they have merely not stopped WITH being mothers. Many of them are learning how to be mothers plus, mothers and something else in addition—not necessarily wage-earners, but all-around, up-to-date, socially as well as domestically useful women.

It is absurd for the Baroness or any other enlightened woman to recommend at this moment the disappearance of feminism. That much-tossed-about term simply means a square deal for women in every field. As long as there are laws that still favor men at the expense of women—and there are—as long as wages and salaries still favor men at the expense of women—and they do—as long as social and emotional codes still favor men at the expense of women—and THEY do—the feminist movement must work and fight to change special favor for one sex to equal justice for both sexes.

NO woman, except those few extremists who carry their sex like a chip on their shoulder, even try to make men think that women will run everything to men's exclusion. Just because men of the past practiced an analogous brand of hogwashiness is no reason why women of the present should follow a bad example. What they want to do is to run things together with men, on a fifty-fifty basis of equal rights and responsibilities, of even-handed justice.

Finally, while it is possible that a few women in England and America may "flinch a post from a man as a relief from boredom," the number must be small for two reasons. First, not many women can "flinch a post from a man," because men still are the favored sex in most fields of employment. The corollary of this proposition is that, if a man is any good at his job, he needn't worry about its being "fished" from him by a woman, "bored" or otherwise. Second, the vast majority of working women do not take jobs "as a relief from boredom," but as a relief from impotency. They work as men work—because they need the money!

No, it's not yet time to put brakes on the woman movement—not while it's still moving uphill! Incidentally, it is amusing to note that the very dispatch which quotes Baroness Ravensdale's ideas about ending feminist revolt mentions that she herself is on the warpath against the man-made rule that a peeress in her own right may not sit in the House of Lords. It evidently makes a difference what woman's right is being denied! Most women—all women in America—could endure with placidity this particular burning wrong of the Baroness, but, following her distinguished example, they intend to keep right on campaigning against the injustices which affect THEM!

TRAINING THE ROOKIES TO DANCE AT THE CITIZENS' MILITARY CAMP

St. Louis Girls Volunteer for a Branch of the Service Which Is Not Without Its Hardships, But They Like It.

By ELOISE FRAZIER

"NOW is the time to come to the aid of your country." This sentence, that is written at some time by everyone who is learning the art of typewriting, should be changed to read, "Now is the time to come to the aid of your country boys," and may be used to enlist the services of the girls of St. Louis in acting as dance partners for the rookies in the Citizens' Military Camp at Jefferson Barracks.

Not all of the young men are rookies in the social sense, but quite a number, being from the farms or small towns, have never danced before, and as they all look alike when they are standing still, except that some of the shirts have been washed more than the others, you girls had better be prepared for anything.

During the day the boys are trained to be healthy men. During the dances which they give every Tuesday and Friday nights they give themselves training in the more social arts, and this requires the assistance of the other sex. So the Red Cross rounds up various girls' clubs and recommended individuals, pins rusted badges on them, and hauls them down in street cars in these particular nights. The fact that the same girls go every time should indicate that they like it, or him, and all in all, don't find the affair such an ordeal.

On these occasions there are only two things that are absolutely necessary to your ensemble. One is the little badge which admits you to the dance pavilion. The other is a pair of comfortable shoes that makes dancing bearable after you get there, for although some of the young men are excellent dancers, their technique lies hidden under a mass of shoe leather which is not infrequently on top of your feet. In other words, army shoes do not make good dancing pumps.

THE boys are not the only ones who get training. The girls who come to their dances under the wings of the various chaperones (yes, there are still some in existence) develop the ability of combining their hair in a windy street car and making it stay put. A feat which, after being achieved, is followed by the routine of pulling down the window curtain and then huddling it with their hands over their heads. They look as if they expect a severe explosion at any moment, but it's only the procedure of keeping their hair in place. They have to fix their hair before they arrive because as they pull into the barracks there is a long line of young men waiting for them, and you know that when you have a long stag line on unofficial inspection duty, you practically have no privacy.

Now comes the next bit of training. You step down from the car and face that line of uniformed citizens, and in doing so you should assume a complete indifference to and ignorance of the fact that you are being observed by some hundreds of pairs of eager eyes. This may be done in either one of two ways. You may pretend to be very much occupied in keeping your own crowd of girls together, or you may solicitously assist the chaperon, who will very shortly be left in a corner to keep guard over many handbags which have been left in her possession.

As a preliminary endurance contest, you trudge over a quantity of very uneven ground to the chapel where you park your hat and coat, if any. It may be that if you have been there before and one of the more or less familiar looking young men will step out of the line and walk with you to the chapel and all the while you wonder what in the world this fellow's last name is. His first is Curly, but that's all the farther you can get. Well, maybe you won't have to introduce him. Then you wonder if you'll get as many cuts as you did the last time. In fact, you think the thoughts that are "think" by all girls before any dance.

FINALLY you are on the dance pavilion, where you have to stay until the dance is over. I mean you really do, because there are sturdy M. P.'s armed with ominous gas and other firearms, who patrol around and around the all, don't find the affair such an ordeal.

The first dance is a Ladies' Choice and takes some time in getting started, either because they don't seem to have much choice or because the girls are too shy to show any preference. After a bit, things seem to get under way pretty well, and only a few girls remain standing around unattached. After a certain interval has elapsed in which the girls are given the opportunity to get acquainted under their own momentum, the hostesses make a tour about the room and endeavor to furnish girls or boys to those who want either one.

Finishing a partner is a simple task compared to the problem of what to do with him after you get one. Of course you dance, that's settled. But you not only have to avoid heavy army shoes, but you smile sweetly whenever you meet one, and keep up your half of the conversation, which consists, in most cases, of trying to find mutual friends.

"Where are you from?"
"Arkansas."

"Really. I have a second cousin who used to live at Little Rock. Maybe you know him, Frank Smith?"

"Now, But I used to go around with Lucy Peterson from Batesville. Know her?"

"No, I don't believe so."

NINE times out of 10 you won't hear a familiar name, but if you do have the slightest acquaintance in common, it forms

Face Peeler Reveals Youthful Beauty

To free your face of freckles, tan, sunburn and other summer ailments it is always best to completely peel off the entire surface skin. This is quickly accomplished by the use of ordinary mercurized wax, which can be had at any drug store. Use at night as you would cold cream. In a few days the offending cuticle begins to peel off in fine powder-like particles until the entire outer layer is removed without inconvenience. The complexion then presents a spotless clearness, obtainable in no other way. Mercurized wax brings out the skin's hidden beauty, quickly removes wrinkles and restores facial contour, use as an astringent, 1 ounce powdered salicylic acid and 1 half pint witch hazel.

Tuesday and Friday Nights They Go Down to the Barracks and Put the Country Boys Through Their Paces.

and fresh summer dresses become limper and limper, but no one notices. The girls don't care because they are having too good a time in being surrounded by lots of men, and the men don't give two whoops because they're so tired of looking at each other that a pretty girl, shiny nose, mussed hair and all, is thoroughly enjoyed. So much so that when the girls start home, the boys have to be "travelling" away from the sides of the street cars.

Amidst the chorus of shouted good-bys, reminders of future dates, and accompanied by much soprano giggling, fluttering of handkerchiefs, and shrieks and squeals as small moths are discovered, this feminine contingent enters and starts for home. They are tired, for they have seen action, they have been in maneuvers, and they have received their baptism of shoe leather in tripping the light fantastic (more fantastic than light) with present and future citizens. Yes, they have seen service and, like all good soldiers, go back for more.

Women Put Style Into Cotton Goods

A NEW impetus has been given to the interest accorded cotton goods by women since members of the sex have been in many cases placed at the head of style bureaus in mills, and also have been appointed directors of fabric styling to give the industry the feminine viewpoint. This is due to the fact that American manufacturers have realized the value of more extended attention to style, the origination of new creations and the necessity for making delicate colors fast to sun and tub.

The latest development in this trend in the cotton industry, recognized by fashion creators as a smart adjunct to the feminine mode, is the formation of a Style Advisory Board by the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers. The members of this group or board are all women with one exception, and will serve to introduce to the public the style trends, new fabrics, colors and fashions in cottons developed in America as well as abroad for dress and decorative purposes in the home.

WHAT TO DO FOR SUNBURN U. S. PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE.

THE general public has been so impressed with the value and necessity of sun baths in the prevention and cure of illness that people in some instances have gone to extremes and severe sunburn has resulted. Several cases of persons who have become quite ill following extensive sunbaths have been reported recently to the Public Health Service.

Sunburn over large areas of the body may be as serious as burns from other causes. While sunlight is of great therapeutic value to children and adults, exposure to the powerful violet rays should be given in the proper doses. Exposure should be gradual or sunburn will result. At first the baby or child should be given direct sunlight for about 10 minutes. This period may be increased from three to five minutes daily until the child receives approximately one hour in the morning and one hour in the afternoon. This will vary in some cases, depending on how the skin reacts. For adults, the initial exposure may be longer and the increase larger each day.

In case sunburn does occur, it should receive prompt and careful treatment. The following treatment has been found effective: Take one-half a pint of hot water and stir into it a level tablespoonful of boric acid powder; then add 20 drops of carbolic acid and shake well. The solution should be dabbed on the inflamed skin with a small piece of cotton or sprayed on with an atomizer. It should not be rubbed into the skin. It can be applied every half-hour if necessary. If no medicine is available, cold compresses will give relief to badly burned areas.

KILLS BARTENDER WHO WON ALL HIS MONEY WITH DICE

Thomas Kelly, Admits Shooting Edward Hendricks at Step Inn, a Roadhouse in County.

SAYS HE DID IT IN SELF-DEFENSE

Declares He Went Out and Got Pistol and More Money After Going Broke the First Time.

Edward Hendricks, bartender in Step Inn, a roadhouse at 3666 Weber road in Luxemburg, St. Louis County, was shot and fatally wounded at 1:45 o'clock this morning by a man who had lost $25 to him in a dice game on the roadhouse bar.

Arrested an hour later as he slept under a tree in Lyon Park at Broadway and Arsenal street, Thomas Kelly, 31 years old, of 534 West Hurck street, admitted shooting Hendricks, but declared he fired in self defense. Witnesses to the shooting, however, said Hendricks did not attack Kelly.

Kelly had gone to the roadhouse about midnight accompanied by Charles Kercher of 208 Highland avenue, St. Louis County, a service car driver, according to Constable Jacob Pfeiffer of Carondelet Township. He got into a crap game with Hendricks who speedily won all the money Kelly had, about $25.

Returns With Pistol. Hendricks, witnesses said, told Kercher to take Kelly home and return to the roadhouse for other games. When Kercher returned 20 minutes later, however, Kelly was with him. He had more money and insisted that Hendricks resume the game.

In the new game Kelly lost again. Kercher and Mrs. Mayne Nejeski of 214 Bates street, proprietor of the resort, told Constable Pfeiffer that he became angry and drawing a pistol fired two shots pointblank at the bartender. "All right, Mr. Hendricks," Kelly cried as he fired, according to testimony given at the inquest this morning by Mrs. Nejeski and Kercher.

Kelly at first told police substantially the same story but later declared to Constable Pfeiffer that Hendricks drew the revolver and that he, Kelly, snatched it from him and fired.

In any event, Kelly ordered Kercher to drive him to Lyon Park, and on the way down Lemay Ferry road threw the pistol into the River des Peres. Kercher told police when Kelly had alighted and there the police found him.

Two Women Witnesses Sought. Meanwhile Hendricks, moaning, Tom Kelly shot me," had been taken to City Hospital, where he died an hour later. One of Kelly's bullets had struck him below the heart and the other had grazed the abdomen.

After the inquest in which a verdict of homicide at the hands of Kelly was returned, Kelly was turned over to county authorities by the city police.

Kelly is well known to policemen who say that they have never known him to work at a regular job. Besides Mrs. Nejeski and Kercher, two women in the roadhouse also witnessed the shooting. The police are looking for them.
